Open Prado Bids In Sept.

WAGE SCALES ARE STUDIED

Bids on the contract to build Orange county's $7,000,000 Prado dam, keystone of the $15,000,000 flood control program of Army engineers in this county, will be opened in September, according to present plans of the federal authorities. It was learned from Washington today.

This first definite information bearing upon the time the big project would get under way was conveyed in a special message to The Register from Washington sources, which said that the exact date of advertising for bids, according to the Army engineers, depends to a large extent upon the Department of Labor, which has been asked to establish a scale of wage rates for workers to be employed.

Study Wage Scales

Because of the magnitude of the project, a detailed study of prevailing wage scales in Santa Ana and Orange county will be made, officials of the Labor department said. It is possible that a hearing will be necessary in order to obtain the information necessary to fixing the scale, they stated. In any event, the wage scale is expected to be completed by August 15.

The War Department has made a definite allotment of $6,250,000 to cover costs of labor and materials involved in construction. Major Theodore Wyman Jr., division engineer in Los Angeles, recently indicated that the plans were ready and the Army Engineers merely were waiting for the assurance of financial provision, which came a few days ago when congress passed a bill releasing $2,125,000 of the $6,250,000, to cover the first year's program.

Washington officials said the work would employ about 400 men for a period of from 15 to 18 months, to complete the dam.

"Thrill" Party Youths Released

LOS ANGELES, July 2.—(UP)—Five CCC youths who participated in "thrill" parties in the homes of young Glendora girls, while the girls' parents were away, were on probation today. They were warned by the court to stay away from young women and liquor.

Henry Merker, 19; Edward Mittle, 18; Edward Calkins, 18; Donald Sothorn, 20; and Robert Brady, 18, pleaded guilty to contributing to the delinquency of minors. Juvenile Judge A. A. Scott granted leniency because a probation officer reported that one of the girls, aged 13, had cut school to loiter about the camp, and another, aged 17, had taken one of the boys riding in her father's automobile.

Flying Fortress Sets New Record

WASHINGTON, July 2.—(UP)—The war department announced today that a "flying fortress" had made a transcontinental sub-stratosphere flight in 11 hours and 20 minutes.

The plane, piloted by Col. Robert Olds, flew from March Field, Cal., to Langley Field, Va., Thursday with the crew of three officers and five enlisted men "on oxygen" all the way.

Acting Secretary of War Louis Johnson said the plane flew the 2,317 miles at an average speed of 204.6 miles an hour. The flight "gives additional evidence," he said, that American planes and engines are "the best."

Seagulls Dine On Grasshoppers

PASCO, Wash., July 2.—(UP)—Hundreds of seagulls glutted themselves on grasshoppers in this district today. The birds flew up the Columbia river from the coast, 300 miles away, to aid farmers in their fight to save crops.

More than 30 men were engaged in a poisoning campaign against the "hoppers and crickets. Farmers said the birds would be able to feed on the insects daily for a week before materially reducing their numbers.

Pair Jailed As Check Forgers

FRESNO, Cal., July 2.—(UP)—Henry McIntyre, 28, and his wife, Joella, 33, both of Salinas, were held in the Fresno county jail today on a complaint charging forgery.

Police said the two admitted passing four or five worthless checks here. They were apprehended at the request of Sheriff Abbott of Salinas who said the pair is wanted for questioning on bad check charges there.

Americans Flee Bombs

SHANGHAI, July 2.—(UP)—American residents of Swatow took refuge on the United States gunboat Sacramento today during a merciless Japanese air raid during which an American priest was wounded, dispatches from Swatow said.

Father William Downs, Erie, Pa., member of the American Roman Catholic Maryknoll mission, was the American casualty. He was wounded when a bomb struck and demolished his home, dispatches said. He made his way to the water front and signaled a tender from the Sacramento. Chinese police arrested him, it was said, and detained him for three hours but then permitted him to board the Sacramento's boat. His wound was not believed to be grave.

1000 Killed

One Chinese was killed and one wounded in the American owned Berger building across from the government buildings. The Berger building was severely damaged. It was estimated that 1,000 persons were killed.

THREE QUIZZED IN MYSTERY SLAYING

HOLLYWOOD, July 2.—(UP)—King D. Gray, 42-year-old cameraman who was slain as he sat in his automobile in front of Hollywood post office, attended a gay party with another man and two women only a few hours before he died of a bullet in his chest, police said they were informed today.

Posed as Single

It Gray, who posed as a single man when he dated the girl who wrote the "Daddy Dear" letter he was reading at the time he was shot, attended a party with two women and another man Wednesday night, it was only a few hours before he was killed by a bullet in the chest.

The body of the cameraman who once filmed Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks and Rudolph Valentino was found in his automobile in front of the Hollywood post office at noon Tuesday. He had been dead more than 10 hours and thousands of persons had passed his automobile before his body was discovered by a newspaperman.

Investigate Party

While Capt. Wallis investigated the party which occurred before Gray's death, Police Chief James Davis announced receipt of a telegram from Police Chief Ralph A. Criswell of Newcastle, Pa., who interviewed Frances Breakley, 23-year-old former University of Southern California student who wrote the air-mailed "Always with you."

All for Love

It was love and not his money that moved her to marry Basil A. (Pat) Ryan at Hickory, N. C., the first time she went out with him last November, declared Mrs. Martha Barkley Ryan. She is pictured in New York Supreme Court as she pleaded for $15,000 yearly alimony and $15,000 counsel fees in her unconcealed separation suit against the heir to $1,110,000 of the late Thomas Fortune Ryan's estate.

SEEK TWO DRIVERS IN FATAL ACCIDENT

Two possible hit-run drivers were being sought for questioning by police today following the traffic death of C. S. Holman, 64, real estate operator of 223 Marine avenue, Balboa Island, at 8 p. m. yesterday on Coast highway near Fernside street, Corona Del Mar.

Mr. Holman was walking across the highway when a car operated by Exis Jamison, 19, of 438 Holly street, Laguna Beach, struck him down, according to investigation of Coroner Earl Abbey.

Struck Three Times

According to testimony of Jamison, and Gene Fleming, Union Service station, Balboa Island, Mr. Holman's body was struck by two passing cars after he was struck by the Jamison car. The other motorists failed to stop although Mr. Holman's body was hurt 74 feet by their cars.

Mr. Holman's body was removed to the Dixon funeral chapel, Costa Mesa, where funeral arrangements will be made following an inquest which Coroner Abbey stated is pending. Mr. Holman's wife is among survivors.

His death is the 33rd on Orange county highways this year.

Actress Wins $75,000 Suit

NEW YORK, July 2.—(UP)—Supreme Court Justice Samuel L. Rosenman ruled today that Frances Farmer, stage and screen actress, was not obligated to pay $75,000 demanded by Shepard Traube, for professional services rendered.

Traube had sued the star of "Golden Boy" for that amount alleging Miss Farmer had entered into a contract with him in 1935 which would give him 10 per cent of her earnings.

Traube's suit alleged Miss Farmer had broken this agreement, made, he said, when she was comparatively unknown.

Justice Rosenman held that Traube's services to the actress were those of a theatrical agent and not a manager. He ruled against recovery of the damages on the grounds that Traube was not licensed as a theatrical agent.

Company In Move To Break Strike

NEW ORLEANS, July 2.—(UP)—The strike-bound Yellow Cab company advertised today for men to break the strike of the CIO's Automobile Workers' Union which tied up its first of taxis.

Following a meeting of company officials a call was sent out for all "loyal" workers and other men to replace the 600 drivers who walked out late yesterday when the 10-day-old truckers' strike spread to the cab company.

The company announced that the situation would remain at a "status quo" during the Fourth of July holiday but that a meeting would be held July 5 of "loyal" employees and others who wanted to work.

Leaders of the striking cab drivers indicated they would fight any attempts to operate the cabs.

Misled, Says Menton Aid

Declaring that he had been misled regarding the collection of fees by Orange county officials, Edgar Hervey, San Diego attorney hired by the county supervisors as special assistant to the district attorney in proposed litigation to test the ordinance eliminating the fees of officials, today announced that the mandamus proceedings instituted against officials in the court of appeals at San Diego, would be abandoned and dismissed.

"They told me that the Orange county officials were collecting these disputed fees," Hervey stated today while in Santa Ana for a conference with District Attorney W. F. Menton. "I now discover that these fees are in the county treasury, and that the officials have made no demand for the fees," he added.

No Argument

"There has to be a dispute before we can get a court ruling," continued Hervey. "As it stands,"

QUESTION SUSPECT IN FROME MURDERS

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., July 2.—(UP)—Colorado Springs police began a thorough investigation today into the past of Norman Wharton, led for the murder of a hotel detective, as reports from El Paso, Tex., revealed he might possess knowledge of the murder of Mrs. Weston G. Frome and her daughter, Nancy.

El Paso police yesterday notified Police Chief Hugh D. Harper that Wharton's description tallies closely with that of the suspected slayer of the two California women near Van Horn, Tex., several weeks ago.

Same Type Gun

Investigation into Wharton's personal belongings revealed a .765 caliber Spanish-made automatic pistol of the same type used in the Frome murders.

A full description of Wharton was sent Texas police when the pistol was discovered, along with parts of the cloth from a dark suit he was wearing at the time of his capture near Denver. The murderer of the Frome women was believed to have been wearing a dark suit at the time of the murders, police said.

Harold Lloyd Buys Old Films

HOLLYWOOD, July 2.—(UP)—Harold Lloyd recalled the thrill of seeing himself top-billed for the first time on Broadway today as he took possession of the original negatives of 114 of his early day comedies.

For sentimental reason, the spectacular comedian bought them from the Pathe company. They include such silent day hits as "Grandma's Boy," "Why Worry?," "Safety Last" and "The Freshman."

The one Lloyd was most eager to get was "Bumping Into Broadway." It was this picture that first put his name in the Broadway lights. Lloyd, then in New York for the first time, saw the marquee and said he still remembers the thrill.

Continue Search For Convicts

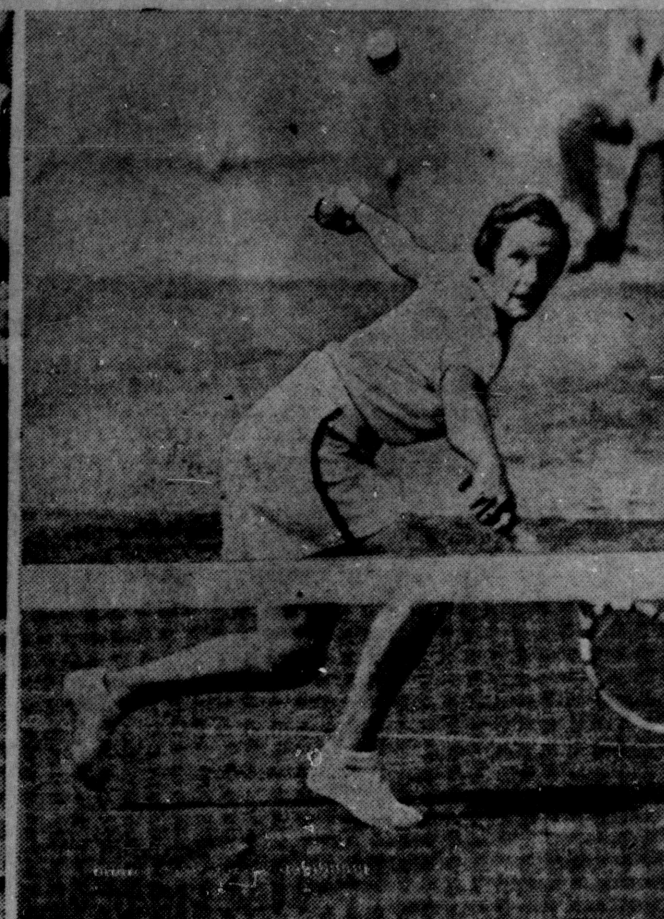

FLORENCE, ARIZ., July 2.—(UP)—Three convicts, one a killer, who fled from their sleeping quarters outside the Arizona state prison here, were still at liberty today. Guards trailing the escaped prisoners returned to the prison, reporting no traces of the trio. Officers throughout the state were asked to be on the lookout.

The convicts, James Williams, 41-year-old farm worker who was serving a life term for murder; Dr. G. B. McClellan, 66, serving six to eight years for burglary; and John F. Brown, 42, serving two to five years for burglary, were reported missing from the prison lineup Wednesday.

Boys Drown In Sacramento River

KNIGHTS LANDING, Cal., July 2.—(UP)—Two Filipino boys, aged 10 and 12 years, were drowned while swimming in the Sacramento river near here last night. Yolo county authorities reported today that the bodies of the boys, Mr. and Mrs. H. Crapessa, and a group of friends watched helplessly from the bank as a strong current swept the children into mid-stream, where they disappeared, officers said. The bodies were not recovered.

Same Scene, Same Principals, Same Old Ending

California's two Helens met again today for the women's world's tennis champions. It was the same old story. Helen Wills Moody, left, swept through Helen Jacobs, 6-4, 6-0, to take the Wimbledon title for the eighth time. Miss Jacobs was handicapped after the eighth game of the first set when she aggravated an ankle injury, and made only three points during the entire second set. Showing no mercy, Helen I ran Miss Jacobs from corner to corner with a withering cross-court attack.

President Roosevelt Approves Plans For Trip Through County

RECORD CROWDS EXPECTED AT COUNTY RESORTS FOR HOLIDAY

Orange county beaches and parks are expected to attract record crowds over the week-end, with beach communities making elaborate plans to entertain visiting throngs.

Huntington Beach has arranged an elaborate week end program which includes queen coronation ceremonies tonight, kayak races, bathing beauty parade and band concert tomorrow and a wide variety of events Monday, including a patriotic parade at 10:30 a. m., old settlers' picnic at noon, horse show, Japanese athletic events, baby pet parade and revue in the afternoon, and band concert, fireworks display and dance at the new pavilion at night. Lieut. Gov. George Hatfield will ride in the parade and later will make a brief speech.

Fireworks Display

Newport-Balboa will stage elaborate fireworks displays the afternoon and evening of July 4. Giant balloons, smoke formations and other pyrotechnics which are visible in the daylight are planned. An elaborate night display is planned, officials of the beach community reporting that the displays will exceed any previous programs in the city. Numerous

Laguna Plans Fete

Plans for Independence day celebration in Laguna Beach augur well for the city's biggest July Fourth. Coast boulevard and adjacent downtown streets are to be decorated with flags and numerous citizens will likewise display "Old Glory," commencing at dawn. Street embellishments will be handled by Floyd Case, superintendent of streets, and the Laguna Beach American Legion post No. 232, will have charge of the evening's display of fireworks, staged on Heislard point. A donation of $100, granted by city council, will help along the pyrotechnics and a previous grant of $125 will provide the flags to be unfurled.

Indications are that all accommodations will be taxed to capacity over the holiday.

Register Joins In Annual Celebration

Joining other business houses in observance of the Fourth of July, The Register will not publish on Monday.

Every business house, city and county office, banking institutions and the post office will be closed all day Monday.

The Santa Ana public library will be closed all Sunday afternoon and all day Monday.

Roy Gardner's Daughter Weds

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2.—(UP)—Jean Gardner, blonde, 20-year-old daughter of Roy Gardner, former mail robber, and her newly-married husband, John Janessi, 20, of Los Angeles, were honeymooning today after a private wedding yesterday at the bride's home near Napa, Cal.

After the ceremony the couple left immediately for San Francisco to meet Gardner in a downtown hotel. It was the first meeting of father and daughter in many years. Both refused to say how long it had been since they last saw each other, but Gardner's last 17 years have been spent in Leavenworth and Atlanta penitentiaries with an additional two years at Alcatraz.

Miss Gardner, a graduate of Napa schools and society editor of a Napa newspaper, met Janessi a few months ago while he was vacationing in Sonoma county.

Landon To Speak

WASHINGTON, July 2.—(UP)—The Republican National Committee announced today that former Gov. Alfred M. Landon, 1936 Republican presidential nominee, will speak over a coast to coast radio network from 4 to 4:30 p. m. next Wednesday.

Rossi Awaits FDR's Arrival

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2.—(UP)—President Roosevelt's projected California visit later this month became involved today in Mayor Angelo Rossi's fight with Secretary of Interior Harold Ickes over San Francisco's sale of Hetch Hetchy power to the Pacific Gas and Electric company, which Ickes charged is a violation of the Raker act.

California advisers of the President were reported urging Mr. Roosevelt to visit the Hetch Hetchy project and dedicate the O'Shaughnessy dam during his visit here July 14 and 15.

It was said that both George Creel, close friend of the chief executive, and Senator William G. McAdoo were warning the President that failure to visit Hetch Hetchy might be interpreted as support for Ickes. The President's announced itinerary calls for a day in San Francisco July 14, and a day in Yosemite National Park July 15, but makes no reference to Hetch Hetchy.

Flood Threatens River Explorers

GRAND CANYON, Ariz., July 2.—(UP)—The Colorado river was reported at flood stage today, arousing fears for the safety of two flora-minded women and four adventurous men who are attempting to "shoot" the river's rapids in two small boats.

In spite of the fact the expedition is not scheduled to arrive at Lee's Ferry, Ariz., until Monday, rivermen here watched the water's flow, which has increased to almost three times its normal because of heavy rains, for bits of wreckage or evidence of the party's fate.

Some believed the dangerous rapids in Cataract Canyon, past the junction of the Colorado and Green rivers, may have destroyed the small boats.

New Deal Deficit Hits New Low

WASHINGTON, July 2.—(UP)—New Deal deficits reached a low of $1,459,000,000 and revenue touched a new high of $5,245,000,000 today when the treasury reported final figures for the fiscal year 1938 which ended June 30.

But favorable returns were offset by the steady rise of the national debt and the prospect of a record breaking deficit in the new fiscal year which began yesterday.

The fiscal year deficit reported today compares with $4,360,000,000 in the fiscal year 1936, the New Deal record to date. The deficit thus computed does not include amounts spent for debt retirement. Receipts of $5,242,000,000 compared to $5,294,000,000 in 1937.

Driver Learns Of Companions' Fate

LOS ANGELES, July 2.—(UP)—Berne Ellis, 35 of Redwood City, learned for the first time today that his three companions in the collision of his automobile with a freight train early Thursday had been killed.

Ellis, under treatment in the Maywood hospital for serious injuries, was reported recovering satisfactorily.

The shock of learning of the fate of his three companions, two women and a man, had no serious consequences, physicians said.

Those killed were Charlotte Richards, 30, Script girl at Columbia studios; Madeline De Moss, 24, of Hollywood; and Louis G. Briason, 24, of San Francisco.

ANKLE INJURY HASTENS END

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 2.—(UP)—Mrs. Helen Wills Moody climaxed one of the finest comebacks in sports history today when she crushed her arch-rival, Helen Jacobs, 6-4, 6-0, to become the first woman in history to become an eight-time winner of the title.

With Queen Mary watching from the royal box, Mrs. Moody reasserted her right to the title "queen of the courts" by literally blasting her power and precision of her shots. Except in the early games of the opening set, Miss Jacobs never had a chance with the woman who won her first Wimbledon championship as long ago as 1927.

Miss Jacobs Injures Ankle

Miss Jacobs was handicapped when she aggravated an old injury to her right ankle in the eighth game of her first set. After the conclusion of the disappointing match it was revealed that Miss Jacobs had pulled her achilles tendon in her semi-final victory over Alice Marble, and that the strain of running after Mrs. Moody's cross-court shots had started it paining again.

Mrs. George Wightman of Boston, non-playing captain of the American Wightman Cup team, went on the court's title spoke to Miss Jacobs after the second game of the second set. She looked at the ankle with Miss Jacobs, and then walked off the court when Miss Jacobs said she would continue.

The 18,000 persons who packed the green stands that encircle Wimbledon's historic center court expected a battle that would match the heart-stopper the two Californians waged in the final round of 1935. But today it was a runaway for the woman Wimbledon crowds have been watching since she was a nervous little girl with pigtails.

Shake Hands Frigidly

At the end of the match the two women, while feuding over the court's title, shook hands at the net. Miss Jacobs had a smile on her face, but Mrs. Moody turned her face away from Miss Jacobs while waiting for the photographers to snap their pictures.

Mrs. Moody caused a flutter of exclamations from the spectators when she and Miss Jacobs changed courts after the fifth game of the second set. As the two passed near the umpire's chair, Mrs. Moody lifted her handkerchief to her nose and walked disdainfully by. It might have been unintentional, but more than one spectator interpreted Mrs. Moody's gesture as a scoffing one.

In the dressing room after the match Miss Jacobs told Mrs. Wightman the injury was a most unfortunate thing for "both of us."

"But I just couldn't quit and walk off the court," she said.

Mrs. Moody said: "It was bad luck for Miss Jacobs."

Mrs. Moody Lifts Game

After taking the first set in fairly easy fashion, Mrs. Moody lifted her game to concert pitch in the second and, as Miss Jacobs withered, blazed through the six games with the loss of only three points. Miss Jacobs injured an ankle in this set and limped perceptibly as she ran for Mrs. Moody's cross-fire of winners.

Asked if the injury today marked the eighth time she had beaten Miss Jacobs in 12 matches, Miss Jacobs' only victory came in the final round of the National championships at Forest Hills in 1933 when Mrs. Moody defaulted in the final set because of an injured back.

Miss Jacobs was sorely troubled by her ankle injury in the second set. She apparently couldn't throw her weight on it at all and her shots were those of a novice. Always a game fighter, she stuck it out to the end, but her opposition was more of a gesture than anything else. She hit the ball everywhere—in the net, over the baselines, and yards outside the sidelines.

Three Titles For U. S.

This was America's third title in the current championships. The first was scored yesterday when Don Budge crushed "Bunny" Austin of England in the men's final. A second game today when Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan of Brookline, Mass., and Alice Marble of San Francisco defeated the defending champions, Mrs. Rene Mathieu of France and Adeline Yorke of England, 6-2, 6-3 in the women's doubles.

Don Budge and Gene Mako of California completed a successful defense of their doubles title by scoring a 6-4, 3-6, 6-3, 8-6 victory over Henner Henkel of Germany and Georg Von Metaxa of Austria.

The weather was cool and the skies overcast when Mrs. Moody, wearing her usual pleated skirt, eyeshade and red jacket, and Miss Jacobs in culottes and a light red jacket, went on the center court.

The queen took her seat in the royal box while the two Californians were warming up. She bowed to them and both players halted.

Churches Arrange
Union Services

GARDEN GROVE, July 2.—Congregations of the Baptist and Methodist churches will unite for worship services during the month of July and August both mornings and evenings. Dr. Charles F. Seitz, pastor of the First Methodist church, will preach to both congregations in the Baptist church each Sunday in July and the Rev. William J. Keech, pastor of the First Baptist church, will conduct the services at the First Methodist church in August.

The Sunday school, young people's meetings and prayer meetings will continue in each church as usual.

W. C. T. U.

Garden Grove Methodist church was meeting place Thursday of Orange County W.C.T.U. executive board members who held a morning session under direction of their vice president, Mrs. Cora Hale.

Garden Grove Union members had decorated the church with baskets of Shasta daisies, and their president, Mrs. Estelle Harper, had a beautiful flower corsage for each officer. Morning devotions were conducted by Mrs. Mary Park, county evangelistic director. A similar devotional period in the afternoon was in charge of Dr. Charles Seitz, pastor of the host church. Music of the day included a solo sung by Mrs. S. W. Holt, accompanied by Mrs. Lettie Smith.

Mrs. Eva C. Wheeler, state W. C. T. U. president, conducted a very interesting institute during which important affairs of the day were discussed and in which various members took part. Mrs. Wheeler also gave a vivid account of her recent European trip, with much detail of her visit to the Holy Land. Other program features included a reading, "Dedication" given by D'Arcy Hayman who won a gold medal just a week ago at Placentia, with the same reading.

Luncheon at mid day was a pleasant event in charge of the Garden Grove Union. At this time Mrs. Wheeler showed the motion picture, "Scholar in the Midst of Liquor Signs."

There was some discussion of the annual unity convention in the autumn but time and place for this will be announced later. Since the National W.C.T.U. convention will be held in San Francisco August 5 to 11, plans were discussed for entertaining large delegations who will come to Southern California. Orange county group will have a picnic table at a gala affair to be held August 13 in Echo park, Los Angeles, for the visitors. All of the Southland's 170 Unions will take part in this event.

CLASS
BUILDING WITH PWA FUNDS
ASK FUNDS ON
PARK PROJECT

ORANGE, July 2.—Directors of the Orange Community chamber of commerce, members of the Orange elementary school board and C. I. Thomas, superintendent of elementary schools, yesterday afternoon conferred on plans for the erection of a new $64,000 school building to replace the old Center street school.

Immediate steps are to be taken to secure funds from the Public Works Administration to aid in the erection of the new structure.

Others present were Congressman Harry Sheppard, his secretary, Harry Thomson, and Ray Adkinson, county superintendent of schools. Sheppard advised that the application for the funds should be made without delay and he pledged his support in securing them.

Originally the board planned to raise funds for the building by means of a direct tax of five cents on each $100 of the $8,500,000 assessed valuation of the district which was to have extended over a five year period. Three years of increased taxation amounting to approximately $40,000 will be saved by securing PWA funds, it is pointed out. No definite estimates on the cost of the building have been secured. It is understood it will be a one story structure of modern design.

The general increase in taxes caused the Orange Community Chamber of Commerce some months ago to appoint a tax committee, C. F. Newton, E. E. Campbell, Oscar Quarter and Dian Gardner, to investigate the creation of a new school through federal aid. Thorburg advised the securing of PWA labor to demolish the old building. Under PWA the cost to the district will be 55 per cent and 45 per cent to the federal government. Accumulated tax funds will be used with PWA funds.

ORANGE, July 2.—One of the loveliest of parties of the summer was given last evening by Miss Margery Patricia Armstrong in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Armstrong.

The home was beautifully decorated with baskets of summer blossoms in pastel shades. The game of "cootie" was played during the evening, with Miss Lubelle Behrmann holding high score and Miss Doris Smith scoring low. Each was awarded an attractive prize.

Engagement Told
At the conclusion of the game the small tables were spread with dainty linens and appointed for the serving of jello fruit salad, iced cake and coffee. It was at this time the real incentive for the party was revealed, for at the bottom of each nut cup was a scroll inscribed with the words, "Margery-Herman, September 15, 1938."

Miss Armstrong took this way to announce her approaching marriage to Herman Weber of Alturas. She first met her fiance when he came south to be best man at the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. William Phillip Goulden (Ruby Armstrong) a year and a half ago.

Miss Armstrong was assisted in her hostess duties by her mother, Miss Ruth Soffie, and the Misses Helen, Julia and Marian Armstrong assisted in serving. Miss Frances Nuckolls favored with a group of piano selections.

BOARD PLANS NEW SCHOOL
BUILDING WITH PWA FUNDS
ASK FUNDS ON
PARK PROJECT

ORANGE, July 2.—Application for a $91,000 park project was filed by the city of Orange at WPA offices in Los Angeles yesterday. The project will be centered on the Santiago creek bed within the limits of the Orange city park. Mayor A. C. Boice and C. C. Bonebrake, city engineer, went to Los Angeles to consult with WPA heads on the matter.

Work for 140 Men
The project will give employment to 140 men for a period of eight months. Approximately 155,000 square feet of creek bed will be paved, providing ample parking space for visitors to the park, the number of which is increasing daily.

Under the new WPA setup a larger amount of money will be provided by the federal government for materials than under the previous setup. The creek runs for a distance of 1500 lineal feet through the park and the bed of the stream is about 100 feet in width.

The popularity of the park with county residents is evidenced by the fact that tables are filled with picnickers every evening. A number of small sewer lines in the east, west, southwest and southeast parts of the city have been consolidated as one project and the project submitted a WPA headquarters for approval. The cost of the project is set at $22,000 and it will employ 25 men for a four-months period.

Shower Is Held
For Miss Wright
ORANGE, July 2.—A luncheon, served at card tables centered with pastel bouquets, preceded a miscellaneous shower yesterday honoring Miss Evelyn Wright, who will become the bride of Russell Fitzpatrick, of Phoenix, Ariz. at the First Christian church tomorrow morning.

They had decorated the home with bouquets of gladiolus blossoms and sweet peas. When the gifts were presented at a large center table, they surrounded a large floral piece, made in the shape of a wedding cake, topped with doll figures dressed in bridal attire. The 'cake' was made of pink and white sweet peas.

Present were the bride-elect, Miss Evelyn Wright; her mother, Mrs. R. M. Wright, and the hostesses, all of Villa Park; Mrs. Besse Pittspatrick, mother of the bride-elect; Mrs. Fred Warren, of Anaheim; Mrs. Nettie Wright, Mrs. Charles Jester and Mrs. Lois Gill, of Laguna Beach; Mrs. Don Larter, of Huntington Beach; Mrs. Lawrence Wright, of Buena Park; Mrs. Blanche Maddox and Mrs. Byrl Engle, of Santa Ana; Mrs. Douglas Hale, Mrs. Wilton Wright, and Mrs. G. CAST OF CHARACTERS
JOSEPH SANDHAM—hero; he thought he was on top of the world until he was snatched into the hands of a gangster.
KELLY ARCHER—heroine; she thought she was headed for the altar until she was snatched into the hands of a gangster.
ED, THE WEASEL—gangster; he thought he was headed somewhere, but he affirms somehow got mixed up.

Yesterday, Joe convinced Ed that he was kidnapping Kelly, then under cover of darkness he begins to do things in the Ford.

CHAPTER IX
YES, under cover of darkness, Mr. Sandham moved into action. First his left hand stole surreptitiously into his inside coat pocket while his right continued to guide the car. From the pocket he drew a small oblong object which he placed in his lap. Then the hand went back into the pocket and came out with a smaller thinner object. After that, for the space of five minutes, both hands rested innocuously on the wheel.

In the back of the car the head of Ed the Weasel nodded slightly. He was by no means asleep. But the steady purr of the motor had lulled his sensibilities. Joe half-turned in his seat and stole a look at him out of the corner of his eye. "Getting sleepy?" he asked.

"Now," said the Weasel, blinking through the darkness. Joe drove for another mile in orthodox fashion. Then, very carefully, his right hand slipped from the wheel, groped in his lap for the slender thing which he had taken from his pocket, found it. The oblong object lay flat on his knee. And for a short time the thumb and first finger of his right hand were tortuously busy, while with his left hand he controlled the destinies of the Ford.

Finally he ceased his labors. "Want some candy?" he said suddenly to Ed the Weasel. "This car's lousy with it." "Don't care if I do," said the Weasel, yawning. "I ain't much today."

Joe reached down to a cardboard packing-case under the seat and fumbled in it. He extracted a small fat box. "Try these," he said, passing it back to the Weasel. "Chocolate covered peppermints."

The Weasel took the box and tore at the cellophane wrapper with his fingernail. It came off and presently he was rustling the wax-paper inside, fighting his way toward the peppermints. For a second the noise of paper rattling filled the back of the car. Under cover of it came a thinner rending sound from the front seat, a sound that was barely audible. Then Joe slipped the oblong object back in his pocket.

ORANGE COUNTY BUILDING, REMODELING NEWS

1938 HOME IS REAL BARGAIN

The new 1938 home is a "bargain value."

That was the statement today of Donald Beach Kirby, president of the Orange County Builders' Exchange, in a comparison of the home of today over that of 10 years ago.

He said: "The new 1938 home is a 'bargain value.' It is not necessary to have an intimate knowledge of real estate values to prove this. It is essential only to go back in memory to the prices of homes of a decade ago—and make a comparison."

Streamlined Fixtures
"Just go through the home of today. Inspect the kitchen and see the planned unit now available with its step-saving arrangements and its beautiful range and refrigerator. Where can you find such a kitchen in a 1928 house? Look into the bathroom of the modern home of today with its gleaming streamlined bathroom fixtures. Compare this bathroom with the equipment in the home of a decade ago."

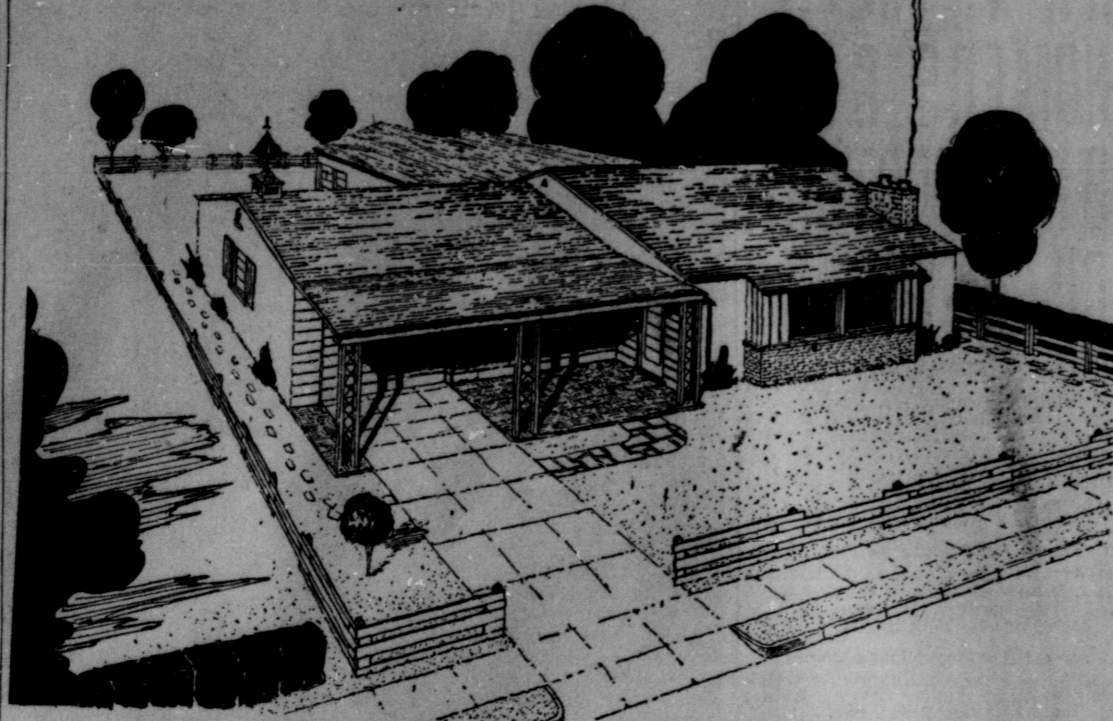

Weigh the automatically controlled heating systems in today's home against the old type systems of 1928. Note what they have done with the space made available thereby—the modern recreation room in the basement.

Engineering Progress
"Air-conditioning was just a dream in 1928 as far as the home was concerned. Today it is standard equipment in a great many homes. All-electric homes or all-gas homes were unheard of in 1928. It took ten years of engineering progress to bring these things to their present state of perfection. "It is these extra features which establish a new standard of comparison of home values—things that were unknown, impracticable or too costly ten years ago, but that are considered vital requisites in the 1938 home."

Attendant Ills
"Then make one more comparison. Contrast the financial arrangements that were possible in 1928 when it was necessary oftentimes, not only to put a second mortgage on that home, but also a third mortgage with all their attendant ills, with the methods available in 1938 for financing the home of today. The difference is even greater in contrast than is that between the homes themselves. Not only are the finance charges cheaper as a result of the one mortgage system, but also you can make your purchase today with a small initial payment with periodical installments in the manner of paying rent," Kirby concluded.

NEW HOME STARTED
Manly Nelson, manager of the Spratt Optical company, has started construction of a house in the 1400 block on Olive street, in the Roy Russell subdivision. Louis Braasch is the building contractor.

Cooperative Model Home Opens Tomorrow

One of the unusual features of the cooperative model home shown above, to be opened to the public at 10 a. m. tomorrow at 265 Broadway, Costa Mesa, is that each of the six rooms of the dwelling can be entered from a common hall. F. Roy Greenleaf and Sons, of Newport Beach, are in charge of the construction of the house. The entire unit, including attached garage and landscaping, can be duplicated for $6,000.

COOPERATIVE MODEL HOME AT COSTA MESA OPENS TOMORROW

First of a series of cooperative model homes to be built in Costa Mesa will be opened to the public at 10 a. m. tomorrow, F. Roy Greenleaf, Newport contractor and builder of the home announced today.

The model home is located at 265 Broadway in Costa Mesa and was constructed and designed by the firm of F. Roy Greenleaf and Sons.

Unusual Feature
A six-room frame and stucco dwelling of the California Monterey type, the entire unit, including garage and landscaping, can be duplicated for $6,000.

An unusual feature of the residence is that each of the six rooms can be entered from a common hall. The entire building contains approximately 1,500 square feet and is equipped with a tile bath and garage attached.

Eliminate Overhead
"The low cost of construction of the Costa Mesa Model Home has been achieved through the cooperation of all of the sub-contractors who assisted in the building of the home," Greenleaf said. "The idea behind the whole series of homes to be built is to eliminate the duplication of overhead costs."

The home will be open for inspection tomorrow from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. and each Sunday after. During the week the home will be open from 1 to 5 p. m. Greenleaf will exhibit the home to all interested purchasers.

Work is under way on the $36,000 additions to the Terro Bella grammar school.

Anaheim Building Totals Highest In Fifteen Years

Permits for two new houses were issued yesterday. P. H. Funk will construct a $3500 house at 555 S. Dickel and R. S. Harvey will build a $6100 house at 750 N. Clementine.

THE HOME DECORATOR

By ERNEST W. GOULD

Hole in the Wall

The first cave man who made a window by cutting a hole in the wall—other than the door—must have thought he was a pretty smart guy. His window didn't have any glass in it and it certainly didn't have curtains, but he was completely satisfied.

Many of us today take a cave-man attitude toward our windows. We expect them to do as we wish—open and close easily; keep out drafts; give us plenty of light. Really, we take them so for granted we forget they're a part of a room's wall and as important as that brand new sofa.

Offhand, it's not possible to give the best way to decorate a window. After all, there are so many kinds! Casement windows, gable windows, transoms, french doors, shallow windows, windows set back in deep reveals, lunettes, plain small windows, big windows and so on.

Of course, many types of windows have a lot in common. For the first four—casement, gable, transom and french door, there is one simple treatment: curtain panels of net shirred on short rods at top and bottom. For the window set way back, it's a good idea to put the glass curtain close to the sash and hang the drapes flush with the wall. For that shallow window, try sheer net pleated at the top, crossed diagonally and gathered in at the lower corners with tie-backs.

For the regulation window, our problem is simpler, depending only on the type of decoration in the room. Naturally we wouldn't use fluffy curtains in a severe, formal room, no more than we would put heavy stiff drapes into a dainty, girlish room.

Sometimes it's nice to give your windows added attraction—especially in the kitchen—by painting the window sills and casements in a bright contrasting color. Red casements behind white ruffled net curtains, for instance, look quite gay.

In each case, it's completely a matter of personal taste—plus a seasoning of common sense.

REALTORS KEEP HIGH STANDARD

Discussion of the advisability of lowering the present high standards of the Santa Ana Realty Board to conform with commission rates charged by non-member brokers ended yesterday with no action taken by the board.

"The Santa Ana Realty Board was formed to raise the standards of real estate brokers in the city and if we bow to standards set by non-member brokers we may as well dissolve the organization," President Ray Goodcell said.

Compromise Advised
The draft of a letter sent to the board of supervisors requesting the raise of the county advertising budget to "an adequate sum to carry on the work" or the dismissal of the advertising department was read by Secretary Marie J. Gothard. A letter to all other realty boards in the county requesting the same procedure on their part was also read by Mrs. Gothard.

Joining with other realty groups in the nation, the local body sent a letter to the national association requesting that at least 30 days elapse before the passing of any resolution by the national directors.

QUESTIONS Before the House

BY WILBUR BARR

Since the revival of interest in early American architecture we are often asked, "What are the sources of American architecture?" The following article, from the monthly house organ of the E. L. Bruce company gives some interesting facts about the genesis of American architecture:

Homes of America
"There is nothing American about American architecture. This is the first startling fact that confronts the beginning student of the subject. If the origin of our architecture were truly American, our homes today would likely be of a style that had evolved from the Indian wigwam or the pioneer stockade, rather than from the conventional architectural fountain heads of the old world."

"The first colonists landing on these shores were faced with the choice of developing an architectural style based upon their environment, or of building their homes like those in the lands from which they had come. Lacking the time, talent and inclination for creation, they imitated the architecture of their native countries as closely as their skill and materials would allow."

Aristocrats and Felons
"These colonists came from several European countries and a variety of social and economic stations, from aristocrats to felons. Each of these groups contributed something of their former environment to the architecture of colonial America."

"The very first homes built by the colonists were extremely crude, designed solely for shelter from the elements. Even these resembled the huts of the peasants in Europe. Soon after, frame houses began to appear, and it is these that we designated by the term 'Early American.' These houses, of the half timber and gable type, were quite medieval in appearance and looked much like English homes of the Elizabethan period."

"The Colonial style was originally separated into geographical divisions with individual peculiarities which gave each of them a definite and easily recognized character. The most common of these divisions were New England Colonial, Dutch Colonial, Southern Colonial and Pennsylvania Colonial. Each of these had its own local style mannerisms, but possibly the greatest difference was in the choice of materials. New England had a fondness for wood, Pennsylvania for field stone, and the South for brick."

Not Sectional
"However, these geographical differences did not long hold. Communication of ideas among the colonies was rapid and the desire to be 'in style' was as strong as it is today. Consequently we see houses from Maine to South Carolina done in the same materials and having the same style characteristics."

ADVANTAGES, BEAUTY OF UPPER BAY TOLD BY REALTY LEADER

BY RAY GOODCELL

President Santa Ana Realty Board

To think that right here in Southern California in the center of the greatest land promotion the country has ever witnessed that the upper bay at Balboa still remains as "au naturel" as the day it was discovered!

A boat trip beginning at the Balboa pavilion, then taking a course between the islands, under the Coast highway bridge inland toward Santa Ana some three or four miles would inspire a Charles McCarthy without the aid of a Bergen. If you are lacking in admiration of scenic beauty, if the usual things fail to inspire you, take this trip up this bit of inland water and add to your appreciation.

Upper Bay Visited
A group of Orange county men last Friday, upon invitation of the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce, experienced the thrill of discovery on such a trip. It was in the evening when the tide was running high, about sun down. The skipper had to know his course because his was a large sightseeing boat and there is no dredged channel, and no buoys or beacons to steer by. Notwithstanding the experience of the crew, the bottom of the boat dragged on a shell bank at one place on the way up and guests were requested to "walk forward and give the propeller a chance."

Barren hills that step up and up and back and back greet you on the south. On the north is a perpendicular bank growing straight out of the water and rising to the mesa above. As beautiful as is the surrounding land in its native state, bare, unwatered and unplanted, think of the improvement if made into fine estates with tree growth and shrubs and green grass. Think of the view from the land toward the water.

Choice Location
Any immediate improvement of the territory adjacent to the upper bay may be too much to anticipate. There may be reasons why it would be unprofitable for the owners to cut into these valuable lands to subdivide and sell them. Surely it is the right of each individual to own and dispose of his property as he sees fit, but if it could be done it most certainly would be of great benefit, not only to Balboa, but not just to Orange county, but to all of Southern California. It seems a pity to deny the present generation the beauty and pleasure of this, the most choice portion of our county.

But even if the land is not available to the public, the water is. The use of it is only denied us because of lack of depth. An inexpensive channel—some say $5500 would cover the present cost—would make it usable to many. It might still be unfit for larger craft, but there is a crying need down there for a speed way, a race track where speed boat and out-board operators could get into their high powered boats and let 'em out.

Speed Limit Cut
Because of the heavy traffic and the inexperience of the amateur sailors the lower bay regulations had to be made drastic and the limit was cut to the looting speed of some 15 knots an hour. Just torture to the "put-puts," so they have left for faster waters where their style is not cramped nor their sport retarded. It would be grand to get such owner, cont.

HOUSING ACT ENCOURAGES HOME REPAIR

Chester A. Warren, chairman of the Better Housing Committee of Santa Ana, called attention today to the fact that new amendments to the National Housing Act encourage the repair and improvement of homes, farms and business buildings in the community.

Warren, whose committee is co-operating with the district office of the Federal Housing Administration in Los Angeles is encouraging home repair and residential construction under the amended provision of the National Housing Act, declared many families may now enjoy greater home comfort on their incomes, maintain the value of their properties, and pave the way for better returns on their investment.

Adequate Income
Property improvement loans up to $10,000 may now be made by private financial institutions approved by the Federal Housing Administration, Warren observed. The borrower, he said, must have an adequate income, good credit rating, and either own the property to be improved or hold a lease on it running six months longer than the term of the loan. These loans, Warren emphasized, must be used to make improvements to the property itself, and may not be used to install machinery or equipment.

More Comfortable
"Farm property, too, may benefit from the property improvement loan plan," Warren noted. "The farmhouse may be made more comfortable and convenient; farm buildings may be enlarged or modernized; barns, silos, water troughs, and similar structures may be built or put in good repair."

"And the important thing to be remembered when considering farm loans," Warren emphasized, "is the improvements may be paid for seasonally, at market time, if the borrower's income is from the sale of livestock and crops."

Costa Mesa Legion Hall Is Completed

COSTA MESA, July 2.—Costa Mesa's new $27,000 American Legion hall was completed today, Commander George G. Gould said. The hall was built through cooperation of local Legionnaires, the federal government and Orange county, and is said to be one of the most attractive club buildings in the county.

PLANNING BOARD APPROVES BEACH PROJECTS

NEW PROGRAM IS DISCUSSED

NEWPORT BEACH, July 2.—General approval of the contemplated $461,000 program of municipal improvements was given at the meeting of the city planning commission last night at the city hall. Motion for the action was made by Dr. Howard Seager.

Official request was also issued that City Engineer R. L. Patterson prepare detailed reports and specifications for action by the group in requesting the necessary government funds and also determining location of the various projects conforming to the master plan of the city.

Possible location of the proposed $39,000 city hall was discussed informally but no action was taken. Planning commission members are subject to call for the next meeting which will be arranged when the planning commission consultant, L. Deming Tilton, who is now in Santa Barbara, is able to attend.

A bond election on the various projects is expected to be called by the city council for August 30.

ADAM ZAISER HELD ON FRAUD CHARGES

Adam Z. Zaiser, real estate man, of Route 1, Box 88, Santa Ana, today was charged with fraudulently holding $750 cash belonging to Mrs. Marie E. Borchard, 363 South Main, Orange, when Mrs. Borchard filed a civil action against him in Santa Ana Justice court.

Mrs. Borchard, through her attorney, Ridley C. Smith, alleged that Zaiser, as agent, collected $750 from George H. Veeh, in the sale of some of the Borchard property to Veeh and failed to turn the money over to her.

"The defendant fraudulently, unlawfully embezzled, took and converted to his own use, the said sum," the allegation stated. Mrs. Borchard also stated she made many demands upon him for the money and had incurred an expense of $150 in trying to get the money, and had lost interest of 7 per cent on the money since the alleged offense occurred, July 7, 1936. She asks the return of the $750 plus an additional $150 and the interest on the $750 since July 7, 1936.

MEXICAN WORKERS ASK WAGES BOOST

In a petition which Lucas Lucio, representative of organized and non-organized Mexican laborers of Orange county, reported was filed today with the board of arbitration for Japanese employers and Mexican field workers, an increase in the wage scale from 30 cents per hour for a nine hour day to 35 cents per hour, was asked.

Lucio, who signed the petition along with Pablo de la Cruz, representing the organized field workers of the county, stated that the workers need the increase to raise a low standard of living.

If granted, the scale would be operative for a period of six months, ending January 31, 1939.

"This petition is based on the actual condition of transitory and migratory labor in the county," Lucio said. "For the past three months, migratory labor has increased considerably, thus causing local workers to suffer through diminished income. This income is 35 per cent less than in 1937."

Gas Stove Racket Practiced Here

A new kind of gas stove appliance "racket" was being practiced in Santa Ana yesterday, it was believed by police, after a report from Fred Merker, manager of the Southern Counties Gas company.

Merker reported one of his meter readers working in the southeast area of the city, was informed by several women that a salesman in the neighborhood had been selling "smooth tops" for gas stoves, collecting $2 from them and telling the purchasers the local gas company would install the "tops" and collect balance of money due on them.

Merker stated the company neither has nor sells the "smooth tops" as they are dangerous to use unless the stove is built for their use.

PAXTON BROTHERS GRANTED PATENTS

Gerald C. Paxton and Hale Paxton, both of Santa Ana, were simultaneously issued patents this week on their box ejectors, word from Washington stated today.

Hale Paxton's invention provides for a box ejector for lidding machines in packing fruit and other commodities. The device provides for discharging a box from the lidding machine after the lidding operation.

Gerald Paxton's invention further provides that the ejector would supply enough motive force against the lidded box to propel the box a substantial distance along the conveyor.

Hale Paxton's invention, patent examiners decided, embodies either previously unpatented ideas, while thirteen original features were embodied in Gerald Paxton's invention.

Gerald Paxton sent in his patent application September 24, 1935, while the other Santa Ana man filed patent plea September 30th of that year. Both men have assigned their patent rights to the Food Machinery Corporation.

ARREST L. D. MAN ON BAD CHECK CHARGE

Accused of issuing a fictitious check in the amount of $10 to Charles W. Ott of Madden's pharmacy on June 17, 1938, R. A. French, 40, of Long Beach, was arrested early today at his Long Beach home after officers staked out for him and nabbed him upon his return home.

He was charged with issuing a bank check with intent to defraud. In Santa Ana Justice court today, Judge Kenneth Morrison set next Wednesday at 10 a. m. as time for preliminary hearing. At suggestion of Deputy District Attorney J. Eugene Walker, French was released, pending hearing, on his own recognizance. A similar arrest warrant held by Fullerton police, probably will be cancelled, it was indicated, since it is reported French made restitution.

Allen. No jail terms were attached to probation. A more serious statutory charge against Wilson was dropped when the girl, testifying in the contributing case, said she was too drunk to know what had happened.

BIBLE SCHOOL OPENS TUESDAY

The third annual session of the summer Bible school under the walnut trees will open Tuesday morning, July 5, at 9 o'clock, at "Bittersweet Lodge," the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis J. Gall, 1338 West Ninth street. The school is open to all children from 4 to 12 years of age, which includes those who have just completed the Sixth grade in school. It will be held from 9 to 11:30 o'clock each morning from Monday to Friday, during the month of July.

The course includes Scripture memory work, Bible stories, songs and choruses suitable for children, object lessons and other interesting features. The aim will be to give to the children such a knowledge of the Word of God as will reveal to them the Lord Jesus Christ as the only savior and will lead them to believe on Him and to live as God's children, Mrs. Gall stated.

Three young women from Los Angeles who have had special training in Bible teaching and in children's work will be associated with Mrs. Gall in this work. Miss Helen Weiss will have charge of the beginners' department, Miss Bee Hilker, the primary department, Miss Edith McKee, the junior department. They will be assisted by Beulah Osborn, Marjorie Pedersen and Irene Grimshaw.

"Last year there was an average daily attendance of 49 children for the four weeks of July. This included children from other parts of the city, as well as the immediate neighborhood. Already inquiries have come, not only from parents of children who attended last year, but from others who are interested," Mrs. Gall said. "We look forward to the best year we have had in this work which is done for the children in the Name of the One Who said, 'Let the little ones come unto me.'"

Seeks Property And $100 Damages

Annie L. Arnold, Santa Ana, today brought suit in superior court against Gregoria Duenes, Leonard Pastrana and Joe Duenes to eject them from possession of property in El Modena which they purchased in her in 1935.

The purchase price of $600 has been reduced by monthly payments to $360.75, but the defendants now are $37.50 in arrears, the complaint stated. Since the plaintiffs' health no longer permits her to go to El Modena to collect the payments, the defendants have not brought the money to her, she warned them of forfeiture and finally declared a forfeiture of the purchase agreement June 15, she stated. She asks the court for possession of the premises and $100 damages.

ENLARGEMENT OF BEACH CITY WATER DISTRICT IS PROPOSED

LAGUNA BEACH, July 2.—Enlargement of the local water district is contemplated, in an application now being prepared by Arthur J. Stead, engineer for the Laguna Beach County Water District, details for which were made available yesterday.

At a cost of approximately $55,000, water service will be extended to Temple hills and Bluebird canyon, including a tract known as "Olympic Village," named for the athletes who participated in the 1933 Olympiad held in Los Angeles.

Included in the proposed extended service, is Laguna canyon, presently being served with water by the county water district. Following destruction of supply mains during last winter's floods.

ROTARY TROOP PLANNING TRIP

Rotary Troop No. 24 of Santa Ana is planning a long trip to the Columbia river after the present sale of fireworks is over. The money that is made will pay off the small remainder on their new Chevrolet truck and the balance will pay the boys' trip to Oregon.

Franklin P. Nickey, scoutmaster, stated that he is not sure of the route that will be taken as yet but will probably go the Coast route on the way back. This is probably the longest trip taken by any one scout troop, to our knowledge, than any troop in Southern California.

The money is made through the untiring efforts of Mr. Nickey and his wife, Mrs. Nickey. The boys sell fireworks during the summer. Christmas trees during Christmas-tide, and fireworks over the Fourth of July.

The boys that are to be taken, Mr. Nickey said, are the boys who have attained the high rank of Life scout. A Life Scout is just one below an Eagle Scout. Between ten and fifteen boys are preparing to take the trip.

Again the boys ask that they would like to have the whole-hearted cooperation of all the people in town to buy their fireworks at their stands. They will be duly marked so as to tell whether they are Boy Scout stands or not. Mr. Nickey stated that their stands in town are located at the New Market Spot on North Main, 17th and Main; Bradley's Market at Washington and Main; Safeway Market at Fourth and Ross; Market Spot at Fourth and Lucy; Pay-Less Market at Second and Sycamore; and one is located at the Orange County Ranch Market on South Main Street.

The boys are to have a small fireworks display at the Santiago Park on the evening of the Fourth of July, starting at about 9:30, and the public is gladly invited to it free of charge, said Nickey.

Convict Is Given Additional Terms

Louis E. Greenwell, now serving a forgery sentence from Los Angeles, was sentenced to two more terms in Folsom, when he appeared before Judge James L. Allen yesterday and pleaded guilty to forgery and a fictitious check.

Greenwell was brought to Santa Ana by his own demand to face the two check charges and have sentence pronounced, so that he could serve them while also serving the Los Angeles sentence. Judge Allen ordered that the three sentences run concurrently. Each sentence pronounced yesterday runs from one to 14 years.

Tyrone Power, left above, Alice Faye and Don Ameche, head an all-star cast when they appear at Walker's theater beginning tomorrow in the powerful, dramatic romance, "In Old Chicago." "Island in the Sky," second feature, is a thrilling murder mystery with setting in New York skyscraper. Gloria Stuart and Michael Whalen star.

COMEDY, ADVENTURE WILL BE FEATURES AT WALKER'S SOON

With its delightful theme based on the conflict between old-fashioned theories and modern actualities in wedlock, "Vivacious Lady" comes to Walker's Thursday for a three-day run, starring Ginger Rogers and James Stewart.

Second feature brings Wallace Beery, Jackie Cooper, Lionel Barrymore, Lewis Stone, Dorothy Peterson, Nigel Bruce and Otto Kruger in "Treasure Island," Robert Louis Stevenson's famous adventure story, brought back to the Walker screen by request of adults as well as children.

In "Vivacious Lady," Miss Rogers depicts a Broadway night club entertainer whom Stewart, a botany professor from a little up-state college, woos and wins in a hectic courtship. When he brings his vivacious wife home to his dignified father, he loses courage and withdraws the story of his marriage. Out of that silence grow the many hilarious situations which follow. James Ellison, Charles Coburn and Beulah Bondi turn in good performances during all of the hilarity.

LUISE RAINER FILM SCREENS

Old New Orleans in its picturesque period after the acquisition of Louisiana from France by the United States forms the background for Luise Rainer's colorful costume role in "The Toy Wife," now showing at the West Coast theater. Second attraction is "Border G-Man," starring virile George O'Brien.

The Anna Held of "The Great Ziegfeld" and the Chinese peasant woman of "The Good Earth" Miss Rainer in "The Toy Wife," turns to the plantation life of the old south as the shallow and frivolous daughter of French aristocracy Melvyn Douglas and Robert Young appear opposite her. The cast also includes Barbara O'Neill, H. B. Warner, Alma Kruger and Clarence Muse. Southern music of the period is woven into the story. Miss Rainer appears as a New Orleans belle who gives up a fascinating gambler to marry a respectable young attorney. When she subsequently comes to believe that her sister has usurped her place in the affections of her husband and child, she runs away with the other man. Before its conclusion the drama is brought to a stirring climax.

A daring scheme to send a small but well-equipped army out of the country to fight in a foreign war is nipped in the bud by a hard-riding federal man in "Border G-Man." George O'Brien's newest outdoor thriller. The plan is thinly disguised as a colonizing effort by a crooked cattle company, which seeks to violate the laws by shipping men, horses and arms and munitions to a warring country. George O'Brien is cast as a special officer.

Conquering Of Poverty Film Theme

The Broadway theater will have as its featured attraction, starting a week from tomorrow, "White Banners," based on the best-selling novel by Lloyd C. Douglas, who also authored those popular successes, "Magnificent Obsession" and "Green Light."

Laid in the 1920's, it tells the story of a typical small-town family, discouraged by depression. How they weather this and get a new start in life is a thrilling story. Fay Bainter, noted stage actress, Claude Rains, Kay Johnson, Bonita Granville, Jackie Cooper and Henry O'Neill have leading roles.

Another feature coming soon to the Broadway is a gay, romantic musical-comedy laid against a background of tropical Southern Mexico, "Tropic Holiday," featuring Dorothy Lamour, Ray Milland, Martha Raye and Bob Burns.

Francis Sullivan and Anna Lee, above, are revealed in a scene from "Non Stop New York," thrilling aviation picture which screens beginning tomorrow at the State. "Mr. Moto's Gamble," with Peter Lorre heading a mystery "Pilot," new serial also begins.

WALKER'S PRESENTS POWERFUL 'OLD CHICAGO' FILM SUNDAY

History is slow in the making and just as slow in the re-making. Movie men have found. In the 20th Century-Fox offering, "In Old Chicago," which screens beginning tomorrow with an all-star cast at Walker's, the major part of the action deals with the hectic year 1870-1871, climaxed by the historic fire of October 1871. And the records of the studio show that it required a year and one-half of intensive effort to bring the story to the screen.

The thrilling, romantic film full of pathos as well as comedy, deals with the lives and loves and fights of the O'Leary family and was taken from the story "We, the O'Learys."

This magnificent film has a cast of top-ranking stars. Alice Faye, Don Ameche, Tyrone Power, Tom Brown, Alice Brady, Brian Donlevy, Andy Devine, Sidney Blackmer and Phyllis Brooks make up the sensational cast. Miss Faye presents the greatest performance of her career.

"Island in the Sky," dramatic-mystery story, features Gloria Stuart and Whalen plan their honeymoon in the hi-de-ho spot, only to find what they think is "just another routine murder case" turns out to be the most exciting of the year. Whalen plays the part of assistant district attorney, Miss Stuart his secretary-sweetheart. "Wynken, Blynken and Nod," Disney Silly Symphony, and world news also are offered.

THRILL-PACKED FILMS SCREEN

"Mr. Moto's Gamble," wherein the mystery master, in the person of Peter Lorre, stakes his life to play a dangerous game against a phantom killer, and "Non Stop New York," thrilling aviation picture which screens in Santa Ana for the first time, double bill at the State beginning tomorrow.

And "The Mysterious Pilot," with the famous aviator, Frank Hawks, taking the leading role, begins as a new serial. The Northwest Mounted police of today go after their man in pursuit planes. A racketeer with political aspirations adapts big-city gangster organizations to the Canadian wilderness. Thus "The Mysterious Pilot" is launched with mystery and suspense throughout. The excellent cast includes Guy Bates Post, Clara Kimball Young, Dorothy Sebastian and Esther Ralston.

Guns without bullets — silent, deadly — with 20,000 witnesses unable to tell how death struck in the midst of a packed fight arena, provide Lorre with an entirely new and exhilarating type of "who-dun-it" mystery. A fine cast supports.

"Non Stop New York" is Gaumont's much-heralded and prophetic picture of trans-Atlantic passenger service. It is fast-moving and suspenseful and the reproduction of the oceanic plane of the future is entirely convincing and the acting excellent. Anna Lee, rated England's No. 1 glamour girl, is revealed as star and comedienne, with Francis Sullivan and John Loder in leading roles. It relates the story of a girl who stows away aboard an airliner to save the life of an innocent man. A musical color cartoon also screens.

Drama With Romance In Two Films

Shirley Ross, currently rating with Hollywood's ten most beautiful young actresses, has the first big dramatic part of her career in "Prison Farm," Paramount's dramatic story of a girl's harrowing sacrifices for a worthless man, which opens at the Broadway theater next Thursday.

In telling this story of a girl thrown into a brutal prison farm because of her misplaced love, the picture goes behind the scenes in a corrupt penal institution to show its inhuman treatment of poorly housed and fed inmates, forced to work 12 and 15 hours a day at back-breaking tasks for the personal profit of ruthless officials. In this heartbreaking setting the girl learns the difference between true and false love. The cast includes Lloyd Nolan and John Howard.

Of equal interest is the second attraction, "Romance of the Limberlost," screen version of the famous novel by Gene Stratton Porter, read by millions the world over. Jean Parker has the leading role in the film, and is said to give the finest dramatic portrayal in her career.

Orphaned in infancy, Miss Parker becomes the slave of her maiden aunt, living in the swamp, fighting to garner an education between chores. In a glen, she sets up a dream castle, surrounded by wild animals she has tamed, and by her butterfly collection. It is there that Eric Linden stumbled upon her and romance. An attempt is made by the aunt to sell the girl in marriage, and a dramatic murder trial leads up to the powerful climax.

The seven kindy and comical dwarfs who befriend Snow White in Walt Disney's musical feature-length production, "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," are shown above with the little heroine in a scene from the sensational production, which opens an engagement tomorrow at the Broadway theater at popular prices.

Jimmie Fidler In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, July 2. — In twenty years of kicking around this dizzy town, I have run across quite a few instances of perverted humor, but never a one as completely disgusting in all of its aspects as this—which I have on unimpeachable authority.

Several of our big-shot producers were having a Saturday afternoon poker session. Late in the afternoon, a service station attendant—a green, good-looking youngster—came to deliver a car belonging to one of the players, and the biggest shot there, after commenting on his appearance, told him that he should be in pictures. "Come out to the studio and see me tomorrow—there will be a place for a boy like you in the industry," he urged. And then, after the excited kid left, those producers deliberately planned an "hilarious" joke at his expense.

Can you blame him for quitting his service station job? Or for being glib enough to let Mr. Doe pass him on to Mr. Roe, who, in turn passed him on to Mr. Moe? It took him three weeks to discover that they were kidding him—that not one of them had the least intention of giving him the promised job. Personally, I would not have blamed him if, at the end of that time, he had punctured these distorted mentalities with a lethal instrument.

In this morning's mail arrived a letter—and an inclosure—which leaves me gasping. The note to me reads: "I couldn't find Mr. Rudolph Valentino's address, so I am writing him in your care. Will you kindly forward it to Mr. Valentino. Thank you." The inclosure reads: "Dear Mr. Valentino: Congratulations! I saw your performance in 'The Son of the Sheik' and thought you were grand. This is the first picture I ever saw in my life, and I hope to see every picture you make from now on. Keep up the good work! I'm still trying to decide whether there actually is someone ignorant of Valentino's death, or whether I'm being ribbed."

An amusing story about Pat O'Brien. Seems that his one great fear is pneumonia, and when he took to bed the other day with a mounting fever, that was the first fear that popped into his mind. A doctor was summoned—a pessimist.

tic soul who, after taking the O'Brien pulse and temperature, shook his head dolefully, talked about the prevalence of pneumonia and urged the greatest caution. On his second call, finding the fever still ascending, he advised Pat to go to a hospital. That turned the trick. Pat visioned himself in the clutches of his one dreaded enemy and became so terrified that he broke into a violent sweat. Two hours later, to the amazement of the gloomy medico, his temperature was normal and two days later he was out of bed!!

The most disgusted young lady in Filmville today is Jobyna Ralston. Ever since the new Hollywood race track opened, she has been betting a few dollars a day on the bangtails and every day she has lost—thereby earning some very sarcastic remarks from Richard Arlen, her husband. Yesterday, Lady Luck took pity on Joby's persistence. Her choice in the last two races galloped home, winners, and Joby was so elated that she decided to hold her tickets overnight in order to show them to Dick and prove her story. But alas, on the way home, she stopped in a market. Some one stole her purse, containing not only the tickets but $27 in cash. "Even when I win I lose," Joby mourned when she told me about the disaster.

Last night was prize night at the neighborhood theatre patronized by the Don Ameches. A car was being given to the person holding the lucky ticket—and Don, having saved tickets for three weeks, invited his wife and a party of friends to go to the show. Arriving at the theatre, he discovered that he had forgotten his tickets. Just to give you a sidelight on the Ameche character, he advised that he rushed back to his house, ransacked his desk, found the tickets and sped back to the theatre. He was an hour late, but still in time for the drawing, which, of course, he didn't win.

I like today's philosophy, picked up from Mr. Bob Burns. He says that the principal trouble with Hollywood is that most of its love triangles turn out to be wrecks. tangles.

'SNOW WHITE' BEGINS RUN AT REGULAR PRICES SUNDAY

"Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" opens tomorrow at the Broadway theater at no advance in regular prices.

Walt Disney's gorgeously produced musical feature-length animated picture in technicolor will show at the Broadway theater for four days starting tomorrow. The sensational picture has shattered attendance records all over the country.

In production for three years and costing a million and a half dollars, "Snow White" is a drastic departure from previous technique in the animated field in that living, credible beings have been created in the persons of Snow White, the Seven Dwarfs, the Queen, the Prince and other characters in the famous Grimm's fantasy.

The story relates the adventures of a beautiful young scullery maid whose youth and charm arouse the envy of the Wicked Queen, who plots in various ways to get rid of her forever. How the Queen nearly succeeds after seeking out Snow White in the latter's refuge among seven kindly dwarfs, and how the little heroine

WINNINGER HEADS STATE FUN BILL

"Goodbye Broadway," with Charles Winninger, Alice Brady, Jed Prouty, Dorothea Kent and Tom Brown heading the cast, comes to the State screen Wednesday for a two-day run.

It is a story revolving about an old Broadway vaudeville headliner and his wife, who are always talking about quitting the stage but never do. Winninger buys a one-horse country hotel and immediately becomes involved in a maelstrom of amusing and dramatic occurrences.

Detective film drama fans who like to solve the mystery on the screen before the detective does will be able to indulge their hobby to the fullest in the second feature, "The Black Doll," featuring Donald Woods, Nan Grey, Edgar Kennedy, C. Henry Gordon and Syd Saylor. The picture is based on a Crime club novel in which an unscrupulous mine operator who murders a partner, is in turn murdered, bringing a "pretty" complication to be straightened out.

SANTA ANA, CALIFORNIA, SATURDAY, JULY 2, 1938

Wedding Vows Exchanged In Glendale Kirk

Arousing special interest in Santa Ana school and social circles, was the wedding yesterday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock, in Glendale's Wee Kirk of the Heather, of Miss Dena Rudolph, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Rudolph, 4208 La Salle avenue, Los Angeles, and John William Hilliard, son of Dr. and Mrs. C. G. Hilliard of Redlands.

The Wee Kirk was at its loveliest for the late afternoon rites, conducted by Dr. Frank B. Fagerburg. It made a charming setting for quite as charming a bride, exquisitely gowned in filmy white marquisette, fashioned on gracefully long lines. Her flaring veil fell only to shoulder length, and she carried, instead of a formal bouquet, a white bound prayer book, the gift of her bridegroom, covered with snowy gardenias and showered with sprays of lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Robert Lee Rudolph, wearing a smart pastel frock, was matron of honor, and John Grigsby of Redlands was best man. Carl Hilliard of Redlands and Robert Lee Rudolph ushered. Preceding the ceremony was a musical program featuring a number of pretty love melodies and the stately Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin.

After the exchange of vows, the new Mr. and Mrs. Hilliard were complimented at a buffet supper in the home of the bride's parents, where members of the two families comprised the guests. When the young people departed on a Southern honeymoon, the bride was wearing a modish costume of shaded blue accented with magenta.

In early September, they will go east and will make their home in New Haven, Conn., while Mr. Hilliard enters Yale Medical school. He had his Bachelor and Science degree from Stanford, and his M. S. from University of Southern California where he has been working towards his Ph. D. in biochemistry. His father is one of Redlands' prominent physicians.

His bride had her college work at Redlands University where she was affiliated with a national music sorority and with Alpha Theta Pi, and at University of Southern California, where she was a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority. For the past two years she has been teaching in Roosevelt school of this city, and plans to continue her own studies when she and Mr. Hilliard leave for the east.

She has made a world of friends here, and has been feted at various parties and showers since her wedding plans were revealed.

Summer Honeymoon Trails Beckon

Summer honeymoons are recalled or anticipated by this quintet of lovely county brides. . . Mrs. Gordon N. Gary has been honeymooning at Lake Tahoe, since the wedding of June 19, but she and her bridegroom will live in Los Angeles. She was Miss Fanchon Martinson, daughter of the George Martinsons of French street. . . Mrs. Paul Kruse, also wedded on June 19, was Miss Ruth Aird, daughter of Henry Aird of Pomona, where the young couple will live after their Southern honeymoon. Mr. Kruse is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Kruse of La Habra. . . Mrs. Paul H. Cate as Miss Marie McGinnis, daughter of Mrs. Mary McGinnis, 1229 South Van Ness avenue, is a popular teacher whose wedding June 23 in M. E. Bridge chapel won wide interest. The young people will make their home in New York City. . . Miss Nadine Heartfield, daughter of Mrs. Grace E. Heartfield, 807 West Fifth street, will exchange vows tonight at a garden wedding, with Roy Lee Wentzel, son of the Lee Wentzels, 1123 West Fifth street, and will leave at once for a honeymoon trip whose destination remains the secret of the young people. . . Mrs. Harrison Giddings, the former Miss Helen Barber of Howard, Kans. was married June 22 in the home of her aunt, Mrs. J. A. Logsdon, Yorba Linda. The young couple are expected home from a wedding trip immediately after the Fourth, and will live on Mr. Giddings' orange grove in Yorba. . . Mrs. Francis Luehm, a bride of July 23, was Miss Adeline Stemple, daughter of the P. J. Stemples of La Habra, where her bridegroom represents an old pioneer family. The young couple will make their home in that community.

Evening's Bridge Play Enjoyed by Guests In Clynick Home

A pleasant reunion of old friends was staged Thursday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Clynick, who recently returned to make their home at 1532 West Washington avenue, after some time spent in Minnesota.

Mrs. Clynick placed tables for bridge play amidst the colorful flowers gracing her home. Attractive prizes were awarded to Miss Hattie Basler and J. B. Haas, scoring high in the evening's play. Guests were formed into groups of four for the enjoyment of refreshments, served to the accompaniment of yellow and white flowers centering each of the small tables.

In the party with the hosts were Mrs. Mary Belle Binkley, Mrs. Maggie May Reed, Miss Hattie Basler, Mrs. Clarice Mitchell, Judge John G. Mitchell and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Haas.

TO NATIONAL PARKS

Mr. and Mrs. Fitzhugh L. Gibbs, 507 East Chestnut street, and their young daughter, Eileen and Shirley, left last night for a motor trip to various parks during Mr. Gibbs' vacation from duties with the County Flood Control district.

The family planned a direct trip to Grand Canyon in Arizona, and from that point will see Bryce Canyon and Zion National park. Returning by way of Salt Lake City and northern California, they will include the Yosemite in their sightseeing.

Birthday Honors Paid Pretty Canadian Hussy-Guest

The arrival for a week's visit here in the Goodrich W. Bassett home, 211 East Tenth street, of Mrs. Bassett's aunt, Mrs. William Kettelmann of Glendale, and her niece, Miss Diana Dav of Victoria, B. C., has occasioned a round of enjoyable outings and family dinner parties.

The fact that Miss Diana celebrated her birthday anniversary Thursday, made a little dinner party that evening at which the young Frederick Schrock were hosts, of special importance. Mr. and Mrs. Schrock, who were Santa Ana's first June bride and bridegroom, are occupying the home of the Rev. Perry Frederick Schrock family during the summer's absence in the east of the First Congregational pastor, with his wife and daughter, Miss Mary Schrock.

It was in this home at 205 West Twentieth street, that the young people staged the gay little birthday dinner, to the accompaniment of many vivid flowers. In the party with the hosts were Mrs. Schrock's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bassett, with George and Rich Bassett, Jr., Mrs. Kettelmann and Miss Daw. The Bassetts had a similar dinner party the preceding evening in their home. They are enjoying a round of short trips to the nearby beaches and plan a beach outing for the Fourth of July holiday, in which the entire family circle will take part. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Schrock expect to be nicely settled in a pleasant North Main street apartment within the next fortnight, as the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Perry Schrock and their daughters are expected home by the middle of July.

Mountain Home Lends Houseparty Setting

Mrs. R. N. Wimbush, 2141 North Flower street, has returned from Blue Jay near Lake Arrowhead, where she entertained with a house party. Women of the group spent a week in the Wimbush mountain home, and were joined for part of the time by their husbands. Horseback riding and hiking were features of the outing, and pleasant evenings were spent around the blazing logs in the fireplace.

Those sharing the event were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bird, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert McVey, Mr. and Mrs. Andy Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Hans Wagner, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wimbush, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wise, Mr. and Mrs. George Crocker, Miss Maxine Bird, Miss Sarah Jean Burkett and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Wimbush.

Memories of Historic Trip Recalled By Gold Star Mothers

Memories of the experiences they shared just eight years ago on one of the famous Gold Star Mothers' trips to Europe, both sweetened and saddened the reunion of a little group of Southern ladies members of the party, held this week in Hollywood.

When this particular group of Gold Star Mothers sailed from the United States on May 18, 1930, to visit the hallowed grounds where their sons laid down their lives, there were exactly sixteen from Los Angeles and its vicinity. In the party was Mrs. Emma Christensen of Tustin, a prominent worker in Orange County chapter, American Gold Star Mothers.

That original group of sixteen mothers has lessened year by year, until when its members were called together Thursday by Mrs. Eva Le Blanc of Hollywood, there were but seven to respond, including the hostess herself. Mrs. Le Blanc entertained at luncheon in her Sunset boulevard home.

Each produced pictures taken on the tour of the battlefields of France, and other mementoes of the journey, so the afternoon was one of many reminiscences. In the party with the hostess were Mrs. Hattie Meyers, Mrs. Ella Noel and Mrs. Katherine Allen of Eagle Rock; Mrs. Lena Stine and Mrs. Clara Clubb of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Christensen of this community.

So interesting did the Mothers find the occasion, that they decided to hold such meetings annually, and again next summer will enjoy the friendliness and reminiscences of their voyage when entertained as guests in some one member's home.

VACATION PLANS

F. A. Jones, manager of J. C. Penney company Inc., Mrs. Jones and their son Robert, 328 East Myrtle street, plan to leave next Wednesday for an extended trip which will take them to various scenic points. Traveling by automobile, they will be accompanied by Mrs. Jones' parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Winters of Carlsbad. They expect to go to Boulder Dam, Las Vegas, Nev., Salt Lake City, Boise, Yellowstone National Park and then over to Spokane and Seattle, Wash. Continuing north, they will spend some time at Vancouver, B. C., and will make the return trip via the coast in three weeks' time.

Sister Quintet Offers Pretty Wedding Party

Creating interest among friends throughout the county was the wedding last night in Placentia Calvary church, of Miss Dorothy M. Allen, daughter of the Milo B. Allens of Garden Grove, and Thomas La Velle Terry of Alhambra, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Terry, Caraway, Ark.

Three hundred or more Southern guests assembled for the rites in a flower-garlanded church. White larkspur, massed against green palms and ferns at the altar, and tall cathedral candles made a charming setting. An organ recital was presented by Louise Woodbridge of Pasadena, one of whose composition, "A Wedding Song," was sung by Miss Marjorie Allen, who also sang "Calm As the Night."

In Bridal Beauty Miss Allen, given in marriage by her father, wore white satin en train, its bodice completed with an Elizabethan collar. Her tulle veil, sweeping the full length of her train, had a halo of seed pearls and orange blossoms. She carried orchids and bride roses showered with lilies of the valley, and as the "something old and borrowed," wore an heirloom brooch belonging to her aunt, Mrs. Clarence Crosby.

The bride's four sisters formed a phalanx of charming attendants. Miss Lucille Allen as honor maid, wore a bouffant frock of lace in salmon hue and carried Ambassador roses and delphiniums. The flower colors of yellow, azure and pink were seen in the pretty marquisette frocks of the Misses Ruth, Marjorie and Gertrude Allen, who carried chiffon daisies in corresponding colors, matched by a flower fillet for their hair. Little Miss Janet Magnusson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Magnusson of Bell, was flower girl and wore white organdy over pale pink satin. Master Stuart Crosby, son of the C. G. Crosbys, wearing white linen, carried twin wedding rings on a satin pillow.

Mr. Terry's best man was Henry Buhler of Pasadena, and ushers were Messrs. Paul Rouse of Placentia, Harry Stewart of Brea, and LeRoy Allen of Garden Grove. Adding special solemnity to the marriage was the fact that the double ring service was conducted by the bride's brother, Lawrence Allen, who just graduated from Princeton Seminary.

For the reception in the Allen home on North Euclid avenue in the Grove community, a hundred relatives and family friends were greeted. Mrs. Allen wore hyacinth blue lace with gardenias and pink ribbons. The three-tiered wedding cake was cut by Mrs. C. G. Crosby and served with fruit punch by Mrs. William Magnusson and Miss Marian Magnusson.

For a 10 days' honeymoon trip north upon which the newlyweds departed, the bride chose a pink and navy crepe ensemble with matching accessories. The new home will be in Alhambra where Mr. Terry is with the Loose-Wiles Biscuit company. He attended Arkansas State university. His bride followed her high school course in Santa Ana Junior college and Redlands university and has taught for the past several years in Placentia school. She has been feted at many parties since her engagement was announced in early spring.

Hermosa Staff Joined By Trailers For Al Fresco Event

Hermosa chapter officers were joined by their trailers Thursday evening for a steak bake and other entertaining features which had setting at the home of Mrs. James and Estelle Workman, 1905 Valencia street.

Sparkling on Adelia (Gas Company) McVey's left hand is a diamond, so we wonder when she and Bob (Anahelm) Ramm will tell folks about it. . . Nadine Heartfield, wedding marching tonight with Roy Wentzel is said to be one of the best-looking girls in the region's order's office—which is saying a lot. . . Jeanne (Schoolmarm) Leive surprised even her closest friends to-day by revealing that her marriage to Leonard (Teacher) Dorn took place last April. This was quite a romance, with both Jeanne and Leonard receiving degrees at Santa Barbara State and then getting positions in Coronado schools—but Jeanne is going to let her spouse do the teaching from now on. . . Gladys (Mrs. J. P.) Thompson has a voice like golden honey and a southern accent as fascinating as that of Sister Vera (Mrs. Clarence) Nisson with whom she and Deb Dotter Suzanne and Jaysee Son Joe Jr. are summering. There'll be houseparties galore down at the beach where the Nissons and Cousins Gertrude and Louise Mont-

Wait a Minute

Time was when the Minute Men dashed in answer to any emergency. What would they do today? Drive up in a taxi, or fly over the community in a plane? Well, the British aren't coming, but Fourth of July is, so get out your ear muffs and have some fun shooting firecrackers with the kids. . . As a nice holiday dessert, we suggest peppermint ice cream on account it sounds just about right and looks the part too. . . Lots and lotsa folks will go beaching. . . Wilma and Hugh (Clothier) Lowe and family are at Balboa for the summer, with Hugh commuting daily to the store and enjoying suhmand swims in off moments. . . By the way Wilma and Nanyne (Mrs. Mason) Youd head this week's list of look a like's. . . We might mention too, T. E. (College Print Shop) Williams and Robert (Coroner Candidate) Crowley—at least in newspaper pickshurs. . . Didja read about the cops chasing Tommie on account he forgot the keys to his mountain cabin, so Frau Esther had to call up the Minute Men of the City's Finest?

If you hear some splashing while touring Panorama Heights, probably it will be a gay party in the Sattler pool, which was dedicated to-day by Marie and George (Gaffers and Sattler) Sattler, to "fun and festivity." . . Dotter Audrey and her friends seem to have as much fun as anyone. . . Edith (Mrs. J. Fred) Reyer and Pearl (Mrs. J. P.) Carmack had a grand time while on their vacation, but were glad to come back to California. . . a halstorm just before they left Denver for the return trip didn't look very inviting to them. . . Edith is anxious to get in some golfing now that she has been away for so long. . . Ethel and Perry (D. D. S.) Davis can hardly wait until September, when that new house of theirs out on West Eighth, will be ready for mama, papa and baby. . . Speaking of babies, won't the fall crop have fun playing together? They should have the same interests too, what with so many of the prospective mamas in Jr. Ebells together. Of course there wasn't any baby talk at the party which Hazel (Mrs. Herbert) Stroschein and Florence (Mrs. Crawford) Nalle gave yesterday for some of the group. . . "I'll double you" said old Doc Stork to Elizabeth and George (Radio Service) Kohlenberger, so as a result guests at a party complimenting Elizabeth in Anaheim, were instructed to bring all gifts in duplicate.

Im-Fertile to the Fact. . . Such bright smiles as shone on the faces of Grace (Schoolmarm) and Chester Wolf as they window shopped like a bride and groom, must be because of vacation daze. . . Of course men never gossip idly as women do, so what momentous matters of state were being considered by Robert (Bartitone-Book-store) Brown and Terry (Treasurer-Author) Stephenson as they were draped over a mailbox. . . Dorothy (Schoolmarm) Garstang already looks refreshed now that she is vacationing from her duties in the north. . . Ethel (City Librarian) Walker probably wishes the library patrons didn't go in for so much heavy reading, since she and her staff had to juggle several tons of books in order to institute a new marking system. . . Madeline (Mrs. Charles) Ray is kept so busy partying, that Mama Amelia (Mrs. E. E.) Keech has had scarcely a sight of her, and now with her early return to join Lieut. Ray in Berkeley, it doesn't seem that she's been here at all. . . Nice to see Ella and John Gowen strolling down street. . . Fascinating names of the week, Majel Machel and Russell Duffie.

Forming a merry party at Idyllwild over the holiday weekend are Mr. and Mrs. William Gray and Mr. and Mrs. William Childs Jr. of Tustin; with Dr. and Mrs. Wilfred Blair and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kirk of Long Beach. Mr. and Mrs. Gray's pleasant cabin will be setting for the festivity.

Didja know that Santa Ana Legion Mothers club was the first club of its kind to be organized? Just ask Amy (Prexy-Mrs. Harry) Stewart if that isn't true. . . Dave (Printer) Sheppard postcarding from Sun Valley where snow sports are the real thing. . . Katherine (Mrs. W. A.) Obarr waxing lyrical over the beauty of an eastern spring but adding that California looked good when she and Spouse W. A. (Pacific Sheet Metal) Obarr and Louise and Cecil (Pastor) Aker returned to their night from St. Louis. . . An early morning radio program played a request for Richard (Drummer) Watson, Santa Anna who certainly beats out a mean rhythm himself. . . Barbara and Tom (Book-keeper) Clark and Justina and Bob (Midway City) Lowry are having a Fourth of July aunt down to Ensenada. . . Gertrude (Mrs. Roy) Winchster is ambitiously continuing her studies even though it is the good old summer time. . . Walter (Paper Salesman) Bacon has a two week's cruise in the offing, when he sails as a Naval Reserve officer sometime this fall. . . Have a good time on the Fourth, but don't get too careless with the fireworks.

Crystal Gifts Are Presented Party Honoree

Responding last night to the party invitation of Miss Elaine McReynolds, 1901 East Fruit street, Miss Marian Baxter discovered that the gay affair was a compliment to her and her mid-August wedding to Harding Edkins.

Miss McReynolds was joined by her mother, Mrs. B. J. McReynolds, in entertaining, and they applied a bridal color scheme of white and green to all party decorations and appointments. This included a dessert course of white-iced cake served with pistachio ice cream and coffee, at linen-spread tables centered with little frilled green umbrellas filled with nuts and sweetmeats. Sprays of lilies of the valley added a dainty bridal touch to the umbrellas' handles.

Place cards in harmony also indicated groupings for bridge play, in which the ribbon-tied prize went to Miss Jean Reuter. One table of court whist yielded a similar package for Miss Margaret Crowell. The prizes were white wall brackets with tiny pottery flower bowls. "Grand prize" of course went to the surprised party honoree. Her shower gifts from the assembled group, proved to be goblets, sherbert, cocktail glasses and plates in her favorite pattern of crystal. The lovely gifts were packed in a big white and green wrapped box surmounted by a dainty doll bride, and placed on a table between clusters of gardenias and pale green flower tapers. There was also a gardenia corsage for Miss Baxter from her hostesses.

Mrs. McReynolds and Miss McReynolds included on their party list with the prospective bride, her mother, Mrs. Gavin Baxter, Mrs. Chester Kinyon, and the Misses Norma Daly, Irginia, Scott, Katherine Eklund, Marjorie Kenyon, Marian Doty, Mary Henderson, Ann Wetherell, Jean Reuter, Marcella Stein, Carolyn Davis, Barbara Kiser, Helen Lowe, Margaret Crowell, Louella Pierce, Jane King, Lavene Parks, LaYonne Franston, Virginia Sheppard and Virginia Pritchard.

RELIGIOUS HISTORY

And Its MAKERS

DESIRE CARDINAL MERCIER (18 51-1926)

RARELY, indeed, has the history of Religion given rise to a man whose lofty ideals and nobility of purpose equaled that of Desire Cardinal Mercier. Much of his work was accomplished during the time that the sun rose and set on the struggle known to the world as the Great War, and it was to the result of his efforts that Pope Pius X had reference when he wrote, "The moral triumph of Belgium in the eyes of civilization and history is already an accomplished fact." That Cardinal Mercier placed moral principle above selfish purpose is an established fact. From the time of his ordination till his death he never ceased to labor toward his avowed end; the abolition of class feeling between the Bourgeoisie and the laboring class, and the creation of closer friendship between Catholic and non-Catholic.

The early environment of Mercier had a direct bearing on his later teachings. Born in 1851 on November 21, of Bourgeoisie parentage, his early life was centered in the society of a small village, Braine-l'Alleud in the Walloon district of Brabant. It was here that he came in close contact with class and religious distinction, and it was also here that he learned at his mother's knee the essential principles of brotherhood and tolerance. To his father he was an enigma. He was the leading tanner of the village, thrifty, hard working, but on the whole a good neighbor and a good citizen. His wife, the mother of young Mercier, was of a more understanding nature, and the lad's high ideals and artistic temperament aroused in her a sympathetic response.

As time passed, however, ill-fortune descended upon the family and they were forced to give up their home and move to the poorer quarters of the city. Nevertheless, Mercier's mother never ceased to work for the betterment of her favorite son. Through her teachings and the beneficent influence of his great friend and teacher, Father Oliviers, he was enabled to continue his schooling, entering the College of St. Rombaut in the autumn of 1863. There, he studied for five years and, in the year 1868, was admitted to the Petit Seminaire. He acquitted himself with distinction and, in October, two years later gained entrance to the Grand Seminaire. Unfortunately, the curriculum at these institutions did not prepare him for the rigors of the life into which he stepped after completion, the unsettled condition of Europe both politically and socially. However, he acquired a remarkable substitute, the ability to analyze, which was to stand him in good stead as he ventured forth to play his part in world affairs.

On April 15, 1874, Mercier was ordained priest as disciple of St. Thomas Aquinas, and after two years at the University of Louvain succeeded to the professorship of Philosophy at the lesser Seminary at Malines. In 1880 Pope Leo XIII, who wished to promote the study of Thomism, invited Cardinal Deschamps to found a chair of Thomist Philosophy at Louvain, headed by Mercier. In 1886 the Pope conferred a Roman Prelature on him and in 1889 issued two briefs urging the necessity of founding an Institute Superior de Philosophie at Louvain. The institute was finally opened in 1894 and Mercier was appointed to the post. In 1906 he was appointed Archbishop of Malines and in 1907 was made Cardinal.

The influence of Mercier was widespread, and he never failed to exert it whenever possible to cement a feeling of friendship among all religions and all sects. Like all men of deep insight and humanitarian impulses, the true nobility of his character manifested itself in a time of social upheaval. On August 30th, while the Belgian Army was retreating upon Antwerp and the Germans entering Brussels, he was summoned to Rome to take part in the election of a successor to Pius X. Shortly after his return he issued a pastoral letter: "Patriotism and Endurance," protesting against the burning of Louvain and other German excesses and defining the Belgian attitude towards the invader. He continued to fight the cause of Belgium throughout the war, not only issuing pamphlets but contributing largely to "La Libre Belgique," a paper supporting the Belgian cause. As soon as peace was restored, Mercier's thoughts turned instantly to the moral and social wounds to be healed.

Mercier's innate sense of justice led him to seek a peace which takes into account the reality of eternity. He was an old man but he did not look back. He continued to fight the moral battles of society from the desk and the pulpit, and his death in 1926 was the occasion of world wide mourning.

Our Children

By Angelo Patri

REST THE CHILD

"Harold has failed in two subjects and the school says he must repeat his work next term. He can attend summer school and make these subjects up. He seems lazy all the time and cries when we scold him, and says he is doing the best he can. But he failed. Should we make him go to summer school, or what?"

This is an adolescent boy who has grown inches in six months and whose strength is about used up in his growth. When children grow as fast as this—one of our boys in school is six feet, one; weighs one hundred sixty pounds, and is not yet fourteen—they have to have time to catch up. They cannot grow as fast as this and stand well in all their subjects. They need plenty of food, sleep, rest and peace.

Many boys fail, and girls too, at this stage of their growth. The junior high schools have many such. Among them are occasional pupils who manage to carry on, but most of them slow up and have to be given extra time. Compelling these children to attend summer sessions to make up work is not always the best thing for their health.

The country, a summer camp, a farm, where these youngsters have change of scene, fresh, pure air, simple and nourishing food, is usually the best answer. If they can rest and feel relieved of the pressure of work, they are likely to go back to school ready to take on extra work and do it well. If they are held in school all summer, or, worse, they are not rested, and they are not likely to do better work.

We need to be more than careful about these fast-growing children. People look at them and, unconsciously, class them, with older children and expect more from them than they can give. "A big boy like that; a big girl like her—why, such a child ought to be doing much more." Usually they are doing too much as it is. The early teens cannot support severe strain, and too often that is what they are asked to do.

These children need a lot of sleep. One of the things they like to do is to sit up as late as possible and sleep late in the morning. That won't do, either. Their bedtime should be early, and it should be set at about nine o'clock. They must get up in the morning by the clock, about seven. They need this strict routine for the sake of their bodies and minds. Regularity is the secret of success with the pre-adolescent, and it will work well with those of the later stage, too. These children are irritable because they are tired. We cannot prevent them from getting tired. They tire easily because their growth is unseasoned. But we can try to routine their day so as to prevent them from being overtired. That will lessen the irritability. A set program reduces friction, as well as fatigue and helps maintain peace in the family. Tears and tempers, smiles and high spirits, swift changes of temper and mood are characteristic. Bear with them, spare them when possible, and wait until this phase passes. It is as hard on the children as on anybody else.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three cent stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply. (Copyright, 1938, The Bell Synd. Inc.)

MAN HAS THREE WIVES--JAILED

Bernice Cuneo, 22, Santa Ana, who married Daniel "Marrying Dan" McCarthy, 25-year-old wood carver, on September 4, 1934, in Santa Ana justice court, began screaming and shouting in a Los Angeles courtroom today when McCarthy was sentenced to from one to 10 years in San Quentin prison and fined $1000 on his plea of guilty to marrying three wives without the formality of a divorce.

As Superior Judge A. A. Scott passed sentence, Miss Cuneo, mother of two of McCarthy's four children, and Mrs. Mary McCarthy, mother of the defendant, screamed and shouted so vociferously, bailiffs were forced to remove them from the courtroom.

Wife No. 3, Calm
Wife No. 3, Hildegrade Hittington, secretary, was present in the courtroom but did not display any great emotion. Wife No. 1, Gladys Barnickel, of San Bernardino, mother of two of McCarthy's children was not present.

"Society," said Judge Scott in denying McCarthy's application for probation, "would be better off if men of your stamp are put away where you can't marry and desert women whenever the mood strikes you."

Giving his name as "Edward W. McCarthy" and his occupation as bus driver, McCarthy was married by Acting Justice of the Peace Chris P. Fann of Huntington Beach in the local justice court. McCarthy said he was born in Texas, Miss Cuneo stating she was a native of Missouri.

Modern Poets

By SEULAH MAY

Like violin music coming from an old castle, echoing through a gorge of trees on a sad autumn day are these songs of Margaret Scott Copeland and James Neill North in two recently issued booklets.

These Songs of Mine Are Dull

How could I know that there could be
A time as still as this?—a space
Between these living hours of life,
And this—the grief I yearn to place

Before a darkened mirror. Deep
And wide has time become, and dull

The echoes of yesterday,
For songs are mute, and dreams
we hush

To sleep are stilled at last in death;
The words are gone, the lips are dumb

In harmony of this—my grief—
So strange a thing has death become.

While time stands still and stagnant
Years are here,
What potion can a hand distill or brew

For me to quaff and seek surcease—
To ease the memory I hold of you?

—James Neill North
in Though Sunsets Die

Fire of a Tropic Moon

Shadows darken at your touch,
And flames smoulder;
Hearts beat to dull rhythms
And eyes grow older.
Lips are silent that told too much,
O moon in a tropic sky,
Silver and evil of eye.

Spell

When the moon-disk is dull,
Shape the clay between your fingers,
Tell the omen of the stars
And watch while darkness lingers,
For the three high stars
And the wild-flung clouds,
For it is then the Little Ones
Weave their cobweb shrouds.

—Margaret Scott Copeland

Mixing Bowl

BY ANN MEREDITH

Strawberry Blitz Torte is a glorified shortcake. You can still have it for Sunday dessert and your choice need not be confined to strawberries, 'y know.

I
Sift together three times:
11-3 cup previously sifted cake flour

11-4 teaspoons baking powder

Cream together:
1-2 cup butter

1-2 cup sugar and add, one at a time.

3 egg yolks, unbeaten

Liquids:
5 tablespoons sweet milk.

II
4 egg whites

1 cup fine white sugar

1 quart berries, sweetened and slightly crushed.

To take the guess out of the recipe before you start, I will tell you that it is just an ordinary two-layer cake, each layer spread with a stiff meringue that bakes along with the cake. When baked, you put it together with berries.

Start with the creaming: after thoroughly creaming butter and sugar, add one egg yolk at a time, beating the mixture until smooth and thick as hard sauce. Flour and milk, add alternately, go into the creamed part, then after a final whipping, the batter is divided between two buttered layer tins and over the top of each is spread the stiff meringue. (Beat egg whites to a foam at first, then add sugar, 2 tablespoons at a time and beat until the meringue will stand in peaks and looks glossy).

Bake the cakes 35 minutes in a slow oven (325 degrees) then increase heat to 350 and bake 30 minutes longer. Spread the hot crunchy cake with crushed berries and top with same. Serve with plain cream.

Just in case you are interested in the values of such things as Blitz Torte, send today for the Calory List. You get it by contributing one of your favorite recipes and enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Smothered Broiling Chickens
Chickens, about 1 pound each
Seasoned flour
Minced parsley
Milk with a tiny pinch of soda
Butter.

—My method.

First, snip off those tiny useless wings and the necks and simmer with the giblets for chicken broth.

Divide each chicken into four pieces, dip in milk, then in seasoned flour and brown in hot fat. Transfer to a shallow baking pan, strew with parsley and green onion and pour in enough milk to cover bottom of pan and allow for basting. Dot with butter and start the baking in a 350 degree oven, open pan, for 30 minutes. After this time, reduce heat to less than 300 degrees, half cover the pan and cook until you can take a fork and break the chicken apart. This is the best way I know of to do these tiny broilers and not have them blow away. Allow three-fourths of a chicken to each person.

Wouldn't it be a comforting thought to know that you had a nice hot dish to serve after making that long motor drive you are planning for the Sunday-after next? Here is the dish that will do you proud!

Hot Crab Loaf

Use a medium sized unsliced loaf of white bread. Cut off top, scoop out crumbs and toast them dry in slow oven. Spread loaf (inside) with butter and let toast also. Fry crumbs in butter to a golden brown. Make a pint of rich thick cream sauce and have ready 11-2 pounds flaked fresh crab meat. Arrange crab meat, cream sauce and fried crumbs in layers in the loaf case. Have crumbs on top, dot liberally with butter and bake in a medium hot oven about 20 minutes. Serve at table, with a green salad and fruit dessert and lots 'a' lots of fragrant hot coffee. (The loaf is to be cut down in thickish slices . . . gooey, but still good).

FINANCIAL AND MARKET NEWS

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, July 2.—(UP)—Apparent insatiable demand for stocks carried the composite average into new high ground for eight months today in one of the most active Saturday sessions of the year.

Before the opening huge volumes of orders piled up. These were executed in blocks of 1000 to 5000 shares at price advances ranging to more than a point. New orders poured in and tickers ran behind for some time. The advances carried many issues into new high ground for the year.

Today's volume brought the week's sales to the largest since the week ended October 23. Considerable profit-taking was accomplished although new demand from shorts more than offset it. Most gains were held and they ranged to more than 2 points in the active list.

Market operators were encouraged by strength in metal markets and in steel scrap. Also encouraging was the federal reserve report on department store sales for the week ended June 25, showing improvement in most sections.

New highs for the year were made by Chrysler at 67 1/2 up 1 1/2. General Motors at 49 1/2 up 1 1/2. Douglas Aircraft at 53 up 1 1/2. American Can at 101 up 1 1/2. Consolidated Edison at 25 1/2 up 1/2. Sears Roebuck at 38 1/2 up 1 1/2 and Standard Oil of New Jersey at 55 up 1 1/2.

Norfolk and Western jumped 1 1/2 points to feature rally.

Amoco, The Goodyear and Kennecott were up more than a point each. Chemicals firmed fractions to more than a point.

Harvester was up 1 1/2. Westinghouse Electric, Johnson Manville, American Telephone and Dew Chemical gained more than a point.

Revere Copper and Brass jumped up 1 1/2 points to 78 on a few 10-share lot transactions. Crown Cork & Seal was up more than 1/2. Leading issues maintained gains and some made new highs just before the closing gone ended trading.

Chicago Board of Trade

CHICAGO, July 2.—(UP)—Hedge selling, lack of export business and the generally favorable weather conditions combined to depress wheat prices on the Chicago Board of Trade today.

At the close wheat was 1/2 to 1, corn up 1/4 to 1/2, and oats were 1/2 higher to 1/4 lower.

Old Ducker about 1/2 cent a bushel in early trading largely due to the encouraging influence of the stock market. Increased offerings met little resistance.

Corn prices showed strength due to fair export demand and bad weather in parts of the corn belt.

DRIVE CAREFULLY —SAVE A LIFE—

"... WITHOUT A BANG-UP"

"A bang-up Fourth without a bang-up!" That appeal to the nation was issued today by the National Safety Council in its campaign to reduce the huge annual toll of accidents over the Fourth of July holiday.

Emphasizing the fact that the annual July accident toll is greater than in any other month of the year and that a large part of this toll is due to the Independence Day holiday, the Council asked every citizen to use greater care in driving, swimming, boating and other holiday activities, and not to use explosives or fireworks.

The Council suggested six general rules to avert holiday tragedy:

1. Start early on your holiday trip. Give yourself plenty of time to get there and back by driving moderately. Sixty-one per cent of fatal traffic accidents occur after dark.
2. Watch out for sunburn! It creeps up on you and can be dangerous. A little of it at a time is the best way.
3. Use common sense in the water. Wait an hour after eating. Be sure of the depth. Know that a life guard is handy.
4. Don't use fireworks.
5. Don't drink if you drink.
6. Take it easy. Get back safe and sound. Be alive on the Fifth!

CREDIT AND BLAME

One of the most laughable pieces of behavior man's mind exhibits is the condemnation of one field of human endeavor simply because it is not some other field.

Men of science must be getting awfully tired by now of having orators belt them around because scientists are concerned with science instead of social ethics or morals. The human brain is even capable of going to the further extent of saddling the actual achievements of science with the blame for man's inability to adjust himself to the new social problems a scientific age produces.

Dr. Arthur H. Compton, Nobel prize-winning physicist, spoke briefly in Philadelphia the other day. He observed, as everybody else has observed periodically in recent years, that the mobility of the modern world and the intimacy in which its people live—the results of scientific achievements—have created a condition . . . "where strife endangers everyone . . ." which is where most speakers stop. But Dr. Compton went on: ". . . and (where) co-operation gives rich rewards to all."

"Thus, in the technological society of which we are a part," he concluded, "science, through industry, is emphasizing as never before the need of love of our neighbors." Or, he might have put it, emphasizing the need of love of our neighbors much more effectively than do most of the men who exhibit so little love of scientists.

NOT A BAROMETER

It would be a little bit easier to feel that good times were going to come back if the stock market were not boiling so furiously.

Not that a stock market advance, in itself, is anything sinister or unwelcome. But we do seem to have a way of getting the business cart a city block in front of the horse whenever the stock market starts acting up, and this current flare-up will give us a fine chance to repeat one of our favorite mistakes.

This whole business of prosperity and depression is so easy to misunderstand. Wall Street is a barometer, as everybody says: But it is not always a barometer of the real state of business. It can be simply a barometer of the state of mind of the trader.

So a sudden rise in stock prices may mean much, or little. And the danger is that we may swing from a deep, unthinking pessimism to an equally unthinking optimism, when what our situation calls for is neither optimism nor pessimism, but a great deal of hard, clear thinking.

Which is to say that the real trouble in our situation is not the fact that prices of divers stocks are very low. It is the fact that some million of bread-winners want work and can't get it; the fact that thousands of factories equipped to produce things the people need are not producing them; the fact that want and discouragement and stagnation afflict a land which ought to be the busiest, richest and happiest land in all the world.

And the trouble with a sudden spurt in the stock market is that it is apt to blind us to the existence of these fundamental difficulties.

For stock prices might go up, and stay up, without any genuine remedy for these deep-seated ills having taken place at all; yet if we fixed our eyes on the stock market we might delude ourselves into thinking that the corner had been rounded and all was to be well.

We have lived with this depression of ours for a good many years now, and we shall do well not to let familiarity breed contempt. Not until work is once more available to all who honestly seek it, not until the business man who offers useful goods or services can expect to get a decent return on his money and his time, can we safely return to the preoccupation with daily security quotations.

Let the stock market go up—or down—as it pleases. The less we think about it, and the more we think about the real meaning of the depression, the better off we shall be in the end.

News Behind the News

WASHINGTON, July 2.—This anti-investigation investigation is warping into a different wolf.

At an off-the-record luncheon of business men this week, Isadore Lubin calmed his audience with the assurance that he and his associates on the investigating committee probably would not make a final report for three years.

The calm, however, was not permanent or complete. Mr. Lubin, the labor department economist, then went on to say the board inquiry would cover all phases of economic and business life, even the tariff (because that has some relation to American business monopolies.) He thought it would chart the new course of the American system for the next 20 years.

Lubin is but one of the 12 investigators, but his plan has more friends on the committee than any other. What he forecasts probably will work out.

An obscure phrase in the law setting up the committee will permit it to delay a final report until after the 1940 presidential elections, if it chooses. At any rate it will submit only preliminary phase-reports to the next session of congress, and will certainly lay out of this congressional election campaign.

Apparently nothing will be done to disturb the current upsurge of business confidence.

Meanwhile all the downtown economists are actively preparing their own personal formulas for the future, to submit to the committee. Assistant State Secretary Berle has agreed to make a report. So will Leon Henderson, the Hopkins economist. (Neither of these two is on the committee.) Henderson and Lubin have taken adjacent houses at a nearby shore resort and are planning to hold some meetings there during the summer.

Yet all agree the committee itself cannot get down to specific cases (such as radio, steel, cement, patents) this summer and probably not before the congressional votes are cast in November.

The new claiming trend has been carried so far that the government economists have actually exposed themselves to personal meeting with industrialists, if not monopolists. Most of the parties are being held under the auspices and roof of Assistant Commerce Secretary Patterson. At the last one there several General Motors Export corporation officials came into contact with Lubin, Arnold, Corcoran, Cohen, Frank and Ezekiel without any fatal results on either side.

The main idea is to show the industrialists that the brain trusters have no horns or spiked tails.

Plans to exhibit them to Senators O'Mahoney, Borah, King and the congressional members bore no such fruitful results before Friday. It did not get out, but last Monday when O'Mahoney was out of town, Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold called upon the anti-monopoly committee to meet for the first time. He sent around notices to the other 11 members.

This seemed rather strange in view of the general understanding in congress that O'Mahoney was to be elected chairman of the committee.

In fact, it seemed so strange to Borah and King that they howled in a political way, and the meeting was postponed until two days later. By this time O'Mahoney was back in town to call the meeting, but Rep. Sumners was absent.

So all decided to wait until Friday amid indisputable indications that the differences between the congressmen and the economists will not be trivial.

Return of Rep. Hatton Sumners to Washington was not only the anti-monopoly incident it appears to be, but a major political event. Inside on it is, Sumners was permitted to understand when he took the anti-monopoly job that something would be done for him in his close primary fight. He did not want the investigation post, but the Administration insisted that he take it in order to keep off a New York congressman who was eagerly promoting himself for it.

Now, Sumners had made the greatest of all speeches against the court-packing plan and did not like the reorganization bill. Furthermore his primary opponent, Tom Love, was running on a New Deal platform. But a few days back the White House delivered a wired Sumners asking him to return immediately. All Sumners had to say to the audiences back home was: "Sorry folks, but the President says he needs me in Washington," which seemed to fit the situation neatly and completely.

The world certainly moves. Somebody has just come through with an oil-burning forge for blacksmiths.

A nudist in Chicago is looking forward to his debut as a concert violinist. His hair isn't quite long enough yet.

A new method of controlling the millions of pounds of pressure used in industrial tests has been discovered. Do you suppose it would work on the lobbies?

The New International Code

My Personal Opinion Is...

By Judd

There ain't nothing like independence, and everybody ought to get some of it themselves, on account you can't hardly find nobody else to depend on anymore. We got the most independent country in the world, all you got to do to prove it is to just read one of Mr. Hull's ultimatums to the other countries, and Monday we're going to make more noise in just one day than the Chinamen and Japs'll make in their whole war, just telling the world how independent we are over here. We got independence 162 years ago, and outside of a little reeling here and there, some H.O.L.C. loans and a few married couples, most everybody's still got some of it left. Yes sir, it's still the land of the free and the home of the brave, most everything's free except love, and you just got to be brave and pay for that if you want to be free; The only other thing that's expensive is money, and you got to pay more'n its worth to get a little of it. I was just talking to one of our Senators the other day, and I says to him, "Senator why is it, in this free country where we got free press, free speech, and all the communistic rights of free citizens, why it is that money is so scarce for some of us?" and he says to me, "Judd I'm going to tell you the honest facts, confidentially and unofficially speaking and strictly off the records, the Democrats is not to blame for this depression we got now, it can all be laid to the Republicans, if it hadn't of been for so dang many of them unscrupulous Republicans joining our party that time, it wouldn't of got so corrupted and a administration of this kind'd never of got started in the first place."

P.S.—Now if you want to really get independent, get yourself a father like Jimmy's got, and then get you a business like Jimmy's got.

YOU AND YOUR

Nation's Affairs

WIDE INFLUENCE OF LOW COST

BY ELIOT JONES
Professor of Transportation and Public Utilities,
Stanford University

Fundamentally the President's position is that a prosperous state of affairs is associated with high costs of production. He advocates high prices for raw materials, especially if they are products of the farm, high wages, and high taxes, all of which add to production costs, and thus make for high prices of goods.

His contention is that high prices of agricultural products and high wages increase purchasing power, and thereby create a demand for the products of industry.

The opposing view is that low costs of production and low prices will likewise increase purchasing power, and create a demand for the products of industry.

Suppose a manufacturer of automobiles reduces the price of his cars by $50. If materials, wages, and taxes are all at high levels, such a price reduction may not be possible. Let us assume, therefore, that costs of manufacture are low enough to make possible the reduction in price.

What will be the consequence of the lower price? The first effect will be an increased demand for automobiles; and this will promptly lead, if stocks in the hands of dealers are not excessive, to an increased output of automobiles.

An obvious result of the increased output of automobiles is an increase in the demand for labor. More men will be employed, and men working part time will be able to work full time. As payrolls rise the laborers employed in making automobiles will have increased purchasing power, and will buy more goods. Their increased demand for the products of the farm, mine and factory will create employment for additional labor, and give it also increased purchasing power.

An increased output of automobiles leads also to an increased demand for the materials that enter into the manufacture of automobiles—steel, glass, tires, cloth, etc.

To meet this demand the manufacturers and producers of the materials will step up their production, which means the employment of more laborers, higher payrolls, increased purchases of other goods, a greater demand for the labor required to produce these goods, and less unemployment.

An increased output of automobiles leads not only to an increased demand for labor and materials, but also to an increased demand for the services of transportation agencies that are to carry the goods. The railroads, operating more trains, will need more men to run them, more men to keep the roads in condition, and more clerks, etc., to record the increased number of freight movements. Because of the increased traffic that they enjoy the railroads will be able to purchase more materials and supplies, and this will increase the demand for labor still further.

The increase in the production and transportation of goods will lead to an increased demand for the services of the many other groups that contribute to the productive process, such as distributors, insurers, bankers, warehousemen, etc.

The benefits of low costs and low prices thus ramify throughout the entire economic structure, resulting in an abundant supply of goods which it is the purpose of a well-functioning economic system to provide. It is not evident that this conduces more effectively to human happiness and general welfare than a policy of attempting to increase purchasing power by curtailing production? And is it not evident that the President is wrong when he asserts that the fundamental cause of the depression of 1937 was "over-production of practically every article or instrument used by man?"

slogan and avowed purpose of the latest farm legislation is also: "return of prosperity. Mr. Mullin says, "Machines do not put men out of work but rather increase employment." Since the machine came in in its full glory we have reduced the working day to 10, 11 or 12 hours to 8 hours. In most states we have abolished child labor and thus created jobs for a million or more men. The very people who are declaiming the loudest that machines do not cause unemployment, are also telling us that one fifth of our people are living off of the government, federal, state or local, an increase in the machine age of a few millions, and still we have ten millions of unemployed.

Yes machines do cause unemployment; and we all believe it; then we are honest enough with ourselves to really examine conditions instead of listening to propaganda. The very makers of machines advertise the fact. They tell how "labor saving" helps relieve the housewife from drudgery. They do not tell how many millions of General Hugh S.

JOHNSON SAYS

BETHANY BEACH, Del.—The Baltimore Sun's editorial page for June 28th pulled a prize that is so much better than anything the column has to offer today that it will be shamelessly rehased here.

The editorial begins talking quietly about the current misuse of patronage to coerce votes and then startlingly begins quoting the veteran Senator Norris of Nebraska—the canonized saint of the "Third New Deal" whom the President says should be elected for life—as follows:

"He proposes that the people elect a President who will proclaim from the moment of his election that he will not attempt to dictate a single measure of legislation; that he will not make a single appointment, from Supreme Court down to White House janitor, for any reason other than honesty and efficiency, and that he proposes to abolish the old rotten system of patronage . . . today the President has become more powerful than all the rest of government combined. The administration lays down a certain course and demands that Congress shall follow it. The legislators who show their independence are punished and those that obey are rewarded."

"The punishments are calculated and refined. 'First his patronage is taken away and his constituents are led to believe he is without weight or prestige in Washington—If his wife and daughter have social privacies, he is made to feel the administrator's displeasure in still subtler ways.' Here follows, in words such as only Senator Norris can write, a description of the tactics the White House even now is using on those who, like Senator Tydings, have ventured to show a will of their own. All this is 'doing more than anything else to make a dictatorship out of a democracy.'"

Can anybody, even though thrilled with admiration for the senator's courage, candor and honesty, read this far and not doubt either his own eyesight or the Sun's accuracy? In the next line the editorial knocks the stilt out from under admiration and hope. The white-plumed Nebraska approach wasn't writing Roosevelt's administration. He wrote that in 1933 about money little Cal Coolidge's soda-mint dictation.

Nobody has pronged more patronage or been more intimately aligned with the present party of political purging than the plumed knight. No senator has received more political benefits from it. Yet the record will be searched without finding any repetition of the 1933 philippic against such political racketeering.

Never in the history of this country have the practices he then so searchingly condemned been more brazenly and shamelessly pursued, as each day's news reveals more copiously and clearly. It is not merely little Aubrey Williams laughing and laughing and cracking the whip, or Harry Hopkins' ill-considered pressure on Iowa. It is the party leader, alias President, himself. In this week's Saturday Evening Post, Alva Johnston, who is as careful and accurate a reporter there is, documents a case that even the old Tammany patronage racket is being used for political purposes merely but for personal gain and on a national and magnificent scale. I doubt if the methods are as raw as in municipal, political insurance but the results have been somewhat similar.

Apart from being hypocritical and sinister, all this is unnecessary. Mr. Roosevelt's prestige and overwhelming majorities in Congress are not threatened with destruction. He is certain to have sufficient support for any reasonable Presidential program. Something more must be intended.

Girls have been released from unemployment to take the jobs that men are being asked to leave.

I am not arguing against "labor saving machines" nor against "modern taking commercial and industrial jobs, but I am saying those things lessen the jobs for men, and will do so until we do something to take up the slack.

Finally Mr. Mullin gives this choice bit of logic which if I understand correctly, our editor would substitute for the Golden Rule: "Commodities and wages have a natural value and both are arrived at in exactly the same way, by free and unrestricted competition."

When I was 20 I worked a winter with a railroad section gang for 11¢ an hour. A few years before we employed carpenters to build us a house at 20¢ an hour.

If we should repeal all labor laws, scrap the labor unions, and stop all relief spending of the government, and re-establish the rule of Dog eat Dog, i. e., unrestricted competition it would not be six months till common labor would again be reduced to a dollar a day and skilled labor to two dollars. With ten millions out of work and no help to support themselves and families they would work for a pittance rather than starve, and I am sorry to say I believe most men with money would observe the policy our editor says he approves. Get the best service you can for the least you have to pay. That is the essence of free and unrestricted competition.

Ability-To-Pay-Tax-Theory a Most Dangerous Opiate

VI

It, therefore, would seem that this Ability-To-Pay Theory of taxation is one of the most dangerous opiates ever devised by the mind of man. It is so beneficial and pleasant when it first starts, that it is dangerous. It makes a higher standard of living for the time-being, but each succeeding year, we must do without the use of the tools which were not created in former years because the Ability-To-Pay Theory takes from the producer the wealth he would attempt to turn into better tools.

The paramount problem of a free people is how to limit a government; and the best solution that has ever been found to that problem is to limit the government's right to discriminate in taxation. When the people once yield to the unrestricted principle of taxing production on this Ability-To-Pay Theory, then the instrumentality has been established for the government to become unlimited and absolute and destroy the inalienable rights of its citizens and the results are inevitable.

A great student of comparative, constitutional government and liberty, John W. Burgess, foresaw and predicted the position we are now in and approaching, when, two years after the principle was established in his book "Reconciliation of Liberty With Government," he wrote: "It (referring to the government with the Ability-To-Pay Tax Theory established) would become a temporary despotism which would destroy property, use up accumulated wealth, make enterprise impossible, discourage intelligence and thrift, encourage idleness and sloth and pauperize and barbarize the whole people."

It is the opiate that has destroyed liberal governments in the past. It is the most dangerous opiate in which we have ever indulged.

CONFIDENCE, COURAGE & THE WAGNER ACT

Few, if any, men have courage and confidence enough in themselves to undertake a difficult task alone. It takes the stimulation of the association of men of like beliefs to give men enough confidence and courage to undertake difficult tasks.

But under the Wagner Act men with vision who desire to bring their ideas into fruition are greatly handicapped if not actually prohibited from associating themselves with other men who have like beliefs. It is true, of course, that the Wagner Act does not prevent large executives from associating together but it prevents them from correcting their errors in selecting their employees. They cannot disassociate themselves with men who do not believe in the competitive system and the universal rule is the Golden Rule.

The result is the men who normally had great confidence in themselves and great courage when they were not interfered with in selecting their associates by government laws now lack the confidence necessary to undertake these hazardous enterprises. This, of course, greatly adds to the unemployed and prevents these men of foresight and courage being able to benefit their fellow men by constantly reducing the cost of living as they were able to do before such discriminatory laws as the Wagner Act were put on the statutes.

It takes associates of like minds and free competition to put into operation new ideas.

The columns of this newspaper, however, are open to believers in increasing and centralizing of government power to explain how there can be much increase in employment when such laws as the Wagner Act restricts free association of men of like beliefs.

We need men with confidence and courage and action. But the Wagner Act and kindred laws of government interference are rapidly making it necessary for men of ability to undertake great undertakings alone. This their judgment tells them they cannot do.

MAJORITY RULE LIMITED

"Well, I don't give a tinker's dam what you believe is right, what I'm telling you is what you're going to do. The majority has spoken and the majority rules in America and don't you forget it!"

Such was the final blast of a street corner orator in Joplin the other day, telling a political opponent to "get off." It was apparently effective, too, though it shouldn't have been. For they were talking about something in which the majority doesn't rule at all—and shouldn't.

In Jersey City, Mayor Hague said he was powerless to protect Norman Thomas from assault when he essayed to make a socialist speech because the majority of people in Jersey City are against socialism.

Mayor Hague happens to be a Catholic. Would he consider himself powerless to protect men of his own church should they be set upon? They do not constitute a majority in Jersey City or in the United States.

The idea that the majority rules in a democracy must always be qualified with the explanation that it does not mean the power to abrogate or ignore certain rights that all American citizens are guaranteed by the Constitution. The right of free speech is one. The right of peaceful assembly is another. The right of individual religious belief and practice is another.

What a sorry place America would be if a simple majority had a right to abrogate human rights as we have come to discern human rights in this modern age.—Joplin Globe.

THE MONKEY IS ON THE PEOPLE'S BACK

Congressman Sam Rayburn, Democratic leader in the house, now puts the monkey on the people's back. Congress is over, it did its job well and now it is up to the people to bring prosperity back. So says Mr. Rayburn. Perhaps the house leader will be kind enough to explain how the people can do this when the congress has loaded them with debt, borrowed against the distant future, passed laws that have produced unemployment, passed other laws that have robbed the people of initiative and passed still other laws that were supposed to produce the prosperity that Mr. Rayburn now says must be produced by the people.—Oklahoma City Times.

Jacksonville Times-Union: "... the Wagner Act, a constant source of oppression and injustice . . . Congress does not appear to realize the injustice and unfairness of the Wagner Act."
